Zeppelin Resumes Flight To Rio De Janeiro Tonight

EXPECTED TO LAND EARLY ON SATURDAY

Short Stop to Be Made and Dirigible Then Plans Return to Pernambuco

OFF FOR U. S. MONDAY

Thousands Gather at Field to Witness Arrival of Airship From Germany

PERNAMBUCO, May 23.—(UP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin was refueled today in preparation for departure at dusk on the southern air route to Rio De Janeiro, next stop on the ship's pioneering flight from Germany to Brazil and the United States.

Food and mail were carried aboard the dirigible as she rested on Giquia air field with her nose lashed to the mooring mast. Around the ship gathered a large crowd which returned to see the dirigible in daylight after watching Dr. Hugo Eckener bring her down to the field in semi-darkness last night after a flight from Spain.

The dirigible is scheduled to arrive in Rio De Janeiro tomorrow morning. Dr. Eckener will land there on a specially prepared field for a short stop before returning here en route to Cuba and Lakehurst, N. J.

Government Guest

The dirigible's commander, who was the guest of the state government last night, said he expected to return here Sunday when he will be guest of honor at a government tea and reception for the crew of the Graf Zeppelin. The departure for Lakehurst was set for Monday.

Some of the passengers were a little shaky when they stepped from the dirigible at 7:20 p. m. last night (6:20 p. m., E.S.T.) after the long period of suspension in midair, but they quickly regained their land legs and lost no time in beginning a round of sightseeing.

They were given a full day for it. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, altered his original plans and decided to refuel the ship today, departing about night-fall for Rio De Janeiro, where he expected to land early tomorrow.

Darkness prevented Dr. Eckener from continuing to Rio De Janeiro yesterday, as he had intended.

Flies Over Field

Officers aboard the ship had difficulty in distinguishing the field because of darkness, they said upon landing. The ship sailed over the field once, then disappeared to the south, and finally returned to circle Giquia airdrome and land.

Dr. Eckener said the crossing from Sevilla was splendid, except for strong winds and rain as the ship crossed the equator early yesterday morning. Unfavorable winds prevailed most of the way, however, delaying the ship's progress.

Dr. Eckener himself navigated during most of the flight. The ship used only four of its five motors, which functioned splendidly. Dr. Eckener spent the night at the home of the manager of his company's local representatives.

The infant Alfonso, who is the first member of a royal family to fly in the Graf Zeppelin, was delighted with the trip.

Nineteen passengers, of which 15 were Americans, and a crew of 43 made the flight.

Says Town Of Morgan Hill Over Volcano

SACRAMENTO, May 23.—(UP)—The community of Morgan Hill, situated between Gilroy and San Jose, may not know it, but it is sitting upon a live volcano.

Professor Fred Buss of the San Jose State Teachers' college is authority for this statement, in a report on file today in the state department of education.

In fact, years of geological research have convinced Buss that there are four volcano formations in that region. One is Alum Rock park. The stone quarries back of Stanford is another.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER WINS ON TEST VOTE

First of Three Attempts to Defeat MacDonald Forces Is Failure

LONDON, May 23.—(UP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's government survived the first of three serious threats against its life by a wide margin of votes last night.

A motion, put by Sir Oswald Mosley, retired member of the government at a party meeting in the commons chambers, and designed as a censure of the government for its unemployment policies, was defeated.

Mosley Resigns

Mosley resigned Tuesday as chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, explaining that the government had rejected proposals for unemployment relief which he offered in the belief they were an improvement on the existing government policies.

The young Laborite, who now is expected to assume leadership of the more radical Laborite elements in parliament, proceeded to attack the government through the motion of censure, but met with a rebuff.

Two other obstacles confront Prime Minister MacDonald before he can feel again that his government is seated safely in the saddle of government. The first is the proposed motion of the conservative opposition on May 28 to reduce the salary of J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal, by $500, and the second is the recently declared defection of David Lloyd George's Liberal followers, who heretofore have given greatly needed support to the Laborites.

Vote of Censure

The conservative motion would be tantamount to a vote of censure on the unemployment policy, since Thomas is recognized unofficially as minister of unemployment.

The support of the Liberals is most important to MacDonald at present, since with the Laborites' present representation in parliament they could not hope to carry vital government measures if Lloyd George threw his influence to the Conservatives.

CHURCH CONFERENCE TO CLOSE TONIGHT

DALLAS, Tex., May 23.—(UP)—The 21st quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, marked by one of the most bitter controversies in the history of the denomination, was expected to complete its business and adjourn tonight.

Bishop James Cannon Jr., berated and defended by factions which split the conference, stood once more in the good graces of the church today.

He had successfully defended himself against charges of partisan activity in the 1928 presidential campaign, irregularity in his stock market dealings, and had withstood a determined fight to oust him from chairmanship of the important temperance and social service board of the church.

McBride Goes To Defense Of Secy. Mellon

Anti-saloon League Leader Finishes Testimony Before Board

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—The Coolidge administration was not as favorably esteemed by the dregs as the Hoover administration, F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, admitted reluctantly before the Senate lobby committee today in concluding his seven days of testimony before the committee.

McBride's statement came after he had made a vigorous defense of Secretary of Treasury Mellon's part in prohibition enforcement, saying Mellon had gone "just as far in enforcement as his superiors wanted him to go."

After concluding the questioning of McBride, the committee questioned briefly Edward B. Dunford, counsel for the league, and then adjourned until Tuesday. At that time, it will hear Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, prohibition and public morals.

Before today's hearing in the investigation of prohibition lobbying opened, Chairman Caraway announced the committee had called Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to appear next Wednesday.

Cannon, leader of the Anti-Saloon movement in Virginia during the 1928 presidential campaign, will be asked to explain his stock market and political financial operations.

Dunford said he believed the organization was entirely within the corrupt practice act when it filed reports of campaign expenditures only for July, August, September and October, 1928. He contended the act did not apply to the league for the rest of the year because it had nothing to do with the primaries.

Refused Bail

British authorities refused to grant bail to Mrs. Sarojini Naidu and other leaders who were arrested with her during the bloody Dharasana raid Wednesday, and remanded them to jail for a week.

A number of the 55 prisoners taken during the raids on the Wadala Salt works went on a hunger strike today. They complained their food was not fit to eat, and that sand was in their bread.

According to eye witness accounts of the police occupation of Dharasana, yesterday, two police officers arrived and ordered the several hundred volunteers to evacuate within 15 minutes or be fired upon.

A short while later, police and soldiers entered the camp, and ordered the removal of a large number of injured volunteers. The troops destroyed water bottles and medicine, it was said.

From there, the police and military went to the main volunteer camp and ordered 300 volunteers to leave at once. A few refused, and were struck with lathis. The thatched roof of the camp building was torn off, and guards were established from returning.

Bank Run Subsides

The run on the Bank of India subsided after a number of prominent brokers conferred with the European manager and expressed confidence. Indians began a run on the bank when they heard rumors that the manager had called police in the raid on the National Congress house.

One volunteer died from injuries he received during the Dharasana raid.

Plans for intensifying the drive for independence were explained to mass meeting of 75,000 Indians by V. J. Patel, Mrs. Naidu's successor, here yesterday.

Northcott Refuses Prison Operation

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., May 23.—(UP)—Fear for the life of Gordon Stewart Northcott, 23, under sentence of death for killing three boys in the Wineville farm murders of 1923, was expressed today by prison authorities.

Northcott is suffering from acute appendicitis and refuses to be operated upon. As a prisoner's consent must be obtained before an operation can be performed, Dr. F. Edwyn Garfinkle, acting prison physician, is powerless.

MAN DRAWS PRISON TERM FOR MURDERS

NEW YORK, May 23.—(UP)—James Baker, 25-year-old youth who boasted of having committed nine murders for the thrill of watching the reactions of his victims was sentenced today by Judge Charles Nott Jr. to serve from 40 years to life.

He had pleaded guilty to second degree murder earlier in the week and his trial started on a charge of killing with poison Henry Gaw, a laboratory watchman here.

Book Prices Reduced In New Price War

NEW YORK, May 23.—(UP)—Intense competition in the book publishing business, aggravated recently by wholesaling retailing through drug and cigar stores, broke into an open price war today with announcement by leading publishers of drastic reductions.

Three publishing houses said they would slash prices to an unprecedented level by bringing out new fiction of leading authors at $1 a copy instead of the $2 or $2.50 usually charged.

A fourth house said it would publish its first novels at $1.50 a copy.

PRISONERS IN INDIA REFUSE TO TAKE FOOD

British Official Will Not Release Woman Leader From Bastille

BOMBAY, May 23.—(UP)—For the first time in a week there was a lull in the Satyagrahis' salt raids today, but the peace was preserved only by British troops who held control in the Dharasana Salt works area.

The arrival of troops at Dharasana and the breaking up of the National Congress Volunteers' camp at Untadi, nearby, forced an interruption at least for the present of Satyagrahis' plans for massed raids on the salt pots, and scattered the volunteers from their center of activity.

INCREASE OF 93 PER CENT IS REVEALED

Urban Population of County Larger Than Rural According to Figures

ONE OF THE MOST striking revelations of Orange county's remarkable growth in the past 10 years and its rapid change from a rural to an urban community was brought to light today by a comparison of figures released by Census Supervisor Stanley Goode and population figures for 1920, 1910 and 1900.

Goode announced the total county population as 118,611. The population in 1920 was 61,375. The county thus enjoyed an increase in its population of 93.3 per cent. Various previous estimates by individuals had placed the county population at figures from 115,000 to 120,000.

Startling Facts

The most startling facts yet brought out in connection with the census were revealed when the Register made some comparisons between rural and urban population today and at the time of previous censuses.

By subtracting the total city population as announced by Goode from that of the entire county it was found that for the first time the urban population of Orange county is larger than the rural. The total city population is 77,171, thus leaving the rural total at 41,440.

In 1920, a check of government figures showed, the urban population was 30,310, while the rural population topped it slightly, with a total of 31,065.

More impressive still was the comparison of totals for 1910 and 1900. In 1910 the total number of city dwellers in the entire county was 13,977, as against a rural population of 20,459.

Urban Population

In 1900 the urban population of the county was 4933 while the rural total was 14,763.

On a percentage basis the urban population in 1920 was 49.4 per cent of the total. In 1910 it was 40.6 of the total and in 1900 it was but 25 per cent of the total. Today the urban population is 65 per cent of the total.

Goode today also announced population totals for unincorporated cities. Costa Mesa topped the list with a population of 3937. Buena Park was second with a total of 2090. Garden Grove was third, with a total of 1824, followed by El Modena, with 1161.

Totals for other unincorporated towns were as follows: Midway City, 485; Stanton, 953; Westminster, 491; San Juan Capistrano, 754; El Toro, 108; Olive, 260; Dana Point, 149; Capistrano Beach, 549; Cypress, 475; La Jolla camp, 510; Winterburn, 409; Tuleburg, 335; Yerba Linda, 560; Olinde, 449, and Sunset Beach, 154.

Goode pointed out that, owing to the fact that there are no definite boundary lines for the unincorporated towns, these figures

SENATE TO GET THIS SESSION

Borah Declares Sen. Johnson Does Not Plan to Stage Filibuster

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee today absolved Senator Johnson, Republican, Calif., of any suspicion of filibustering against the London naval treaty in committee hearings and predicted the hearings would be completed by the middle of next week.

"There is no evidence," Borah said, "of an attempt to kill time. Senator Johnson has called a number of witnesses but he has examined them without wasting time."

Hearings Near End

Conclusion of hearings next week will open the way to consideration of the treaty of the senate this session as desired by President Hoover.

Borah made his announcement after an executive session today in which procedure was considered.

Both the foreign relations and the naval committee made good progress with the hearings today.

A veritable parade of rear admirals and subordinate officers testified today, one after another, all joining naval officers who have appeared previously in opposing various features of the treaty. They raised objection to increase of the Japanese ratio from 5-3 to 10-7, which it was testified would be disadvantageous to the United States, to the division into six and eight inch gun cruisers, and expressed the opinion the treaty does not give the United States parity with Great Britain.

Many Appear

Those who appeared today were: Rear Admiral H. H. Hough, commander of the navy general board; Rear Admiral O. Lehy, chief of the ordnance bureau; Rear Admiral George C. Day, a member of the general board; Rear Admiral R. E. Conz, retired, former commander of the fleet, and Captain Adolphus Andrews, commander of the battleship Texas, and Commander H. C. Train, naval technical expert and veteran of five disarmament conferences.

Both committees adjourned today until Monday.

FLYER KILLED ON FIRST SOLO FLIGHT

RIVERSIDE, Calif., May 23.—(UP)—Pending a complete investigation, army officials today refused to comment upon the fatal crash which ended the brief flying career of Lieut. Harland H. Dekay, 26, a cadet killed on his first solo flight.

The young aviator plunged to his death when in an attempted forced landing, the training plane went into a tail spin. Observers said motor trouble apparently caused Dekay to try for a landing.

He was one of 46 West Point graduates who came to March field last October for their primary training in aviation.

Funeral arrangements were held up for word from the flyer's mother, Mrs. W. H. Gage, of Kenosha, Wis.

Army Refuses To Show Preference For Navy's Sites

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—The army is ready to extend maximum protection to the navy's new $5,000,000 dirigible base regardless of its location, Major H. M. Hickman of the army general staff, told the house naval affairs committee today.

The general staff has decided to express no preference for either of the two sites under consideration, Camp Kearny and Sunnyvale, Calif. Hickman said, because it considers the matter of paramount interest to the navy.

ACTOR RECOVERING

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(UP)—George Moran of the famous black-faced comedy team, Moran and Mack, was reported by hospital authorities to be resting comfortably today after a serious major operation.

The operation was the second within the past few months. It was several weeks, physicians said, before the comedian will be able to resume his work in Hollywood.

Girl Confined To Reformatory For 6 Years Released

CHICAGO, May 23.—(UP)—A girl branded as "feeble-minded" and condemned to six years in a reformatory because she didn't like school, today had the satisfaction of being credited with "great intelligence" by the court which ordered her release.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus freeing the girl, Grace Molkenkott, now 19 years old, was granted yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David, who said in his release order:

"This young woman was not at the time of commitment feeble-minded, is not now, and never was, and on the contrary she appears to be of great intelligence."

"It is disgraceful that she should have spent what should have been six of the happiest years of her life in such a place because she didn't like to go to school and played 'hooky'."

ORANGE COUNTY POPULATION IS OVER 118,000

are merely estimates of the enumerators.

Laguna Beach and Costa Mesa stood today as shining examples of rapid growth in Orange county since 1920. In 1920 the Laguna township had a population of 363, government figures show. Today, with a population in the incorporated city of 1960, it has made a gain of 439.9 per cent.

Costa Mesa, with a population of 3037, surpassed the entire county by its growth. In 1920 Costa Mesa hardly was regarded as a community.

Other examples of growth were seen in township figures released by Census Supervisor Goode today as follows: Anaheim, 23,306; Santa Ana, 31,121; Fullerton, 16,788; Orange, 12,681; Huntington Beach 11,132; Brea, 7289; Laguna Beach 2166; Newport Beach, 5297; San Juan, 2832; Seal Beach, 2016; Tustin, 4074. Comparison with 1920 totals cannot be made because of changes in township lines.

German Night Club Installs Table Phones

BERLIN, May 23.—(INS)—Modern science is gradually solving the problem of communication in the modern cabarets as well.

Several Berlin night clubs and dancing places have installed telephones on each table. If you see somebody at any table with whom you would like to dance, or talk, it is quite all right to ring her up—or him, too.

It is reliably reported that more than one marriage has resulted from a reckless telephone call from table to table.

Some places have installed mail tubes permitting the sending of notes from table to table.

One dancing place, however, has gone back to the ancient signal flags. A red flag is hoisted at a miniature mast beside a lady means "I'd like to dance, please ask me."

A green flag means: "No."

Eureka Business District Damaged By $200,000 Fire

EUREKA, Cal., May 23.—(UP)—Property damage estimated at $200,000 was caused here today when a fire swept through Eureka's business district and for a time threatened destruction of several blocks.

The blaze started in the W. P. Fuller company store between F and G streets and from there spread to a confectionary store, known as the Kandy Kitchen; the Axel Sundquist shoe store and to the office of the Pettigill Realty company, all the stores and offices being damaged by smoke, fire and water.

For several hours the new State theater and the Atkinson Woods drug store were threatened.

The blaze was extinguished after a stubborn three-hour fight.

GRASS BURNS
A small grass fire was extinguished today by the Santa Ana fire department. Answering a call at 11:13 a. m., the department put out the blaze at 1305 South Parton street.

quired on the sponsor papers for county and township officials, including supervisors, central committeemen and representatives to the state senate and assembly, is a minimum of 20 and a maximum of 30. The filing fee is $10 for county and township officials and $20 for candidates for the state legislature.

For state offices and the United States senate, candidates' papers must carry the names of from 65 to 100 sponsors. The filing fee is two per cent of the annual salary of the office for which the candidate is running, which in the case of an associate justice for the supreme court would amount to $220.

Another division is for candidates for the house of representatives, the governor, state board of equalization and candidates for offices of political subdivisions embracing more than one county and less than the state. Here the number of required signatures is set as not less than 40 and not more than 60. The fee is one per cent of the annual salary of the position, which in the case of a justice for the fourth district court of appeals would be $100.

It is anticipated that the county clerk's office will be an extremely busy place next Wednesday, as there is a large number of candidates who are expected to get into the race at the first possible moment.

County offices for which nominees are to be selected include supervisors of the second, fourth and fifth districts, judges of department three superior court, assessor, clerk, surveyor, auditor, coroner and public administrator, district attorney, recorder, sheriff, superintendent of school, tax collector and treasurer. Representative to the state assembly is also to be elected.

CALIFORNIA TO REGISTER GAIN IN POPULATION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—California looks forward to gaining at least six new congressional representatives under the 1930 census.

While the biggest gains in population during the last decade are admitted to be in Los Angeles and communities immediately adjacent, northern California boosters are claiming large increases also.

Under the reapportionment bill passed by congress last year, the new census will be the basis for reapportioning congress for the first time in twenty years and will become effective with the congress elected in 1932.

It is estimated that 23 house seats will be transferred from one group of states to another but the total number of seats will remain at 435.

At present California is divided into eleven congressional districts, only three of which are in southern California.

Under the new census, control will shift to the southern section of the state which will hold the balance of power in the state's congressional representation it is generally agreed.

Approximately 3000 census takers are at work in California, armed with a long list of questions, the answers to which are expected to furnish the government with many valuable statistics, some heretofore unavailable.

Los Angeles, alone claims an increase of more than 150 per cent in population in the last ten years and boasts of being the fourth largest city in the United States, surpassed only by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. In 1920, it was tenth largest in size in the country.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce population estimate for 1930 is 1,468,663. The official 1920 census gave the city 576,678, although several smaller communities have been annexed since that time.

San Francisco's growth has been less spectacular than Los Angeles and the 1930 census estimate of J. Harry Zemansky, former registrar of voters and census campaign manager, is 750,000—an increase of 40 per cent. In 1920 it was 506,676.

Oakland, third largest city in the state, located on the east side of San Francisco bay, had a population of approximately 376,000 on January 1, 1930, according to the estimate of its Chamber of Commerce. This represents a 75 per cent estimated gain, the official 1920 census giving Oakland 216,261.

Makes Monument For Own Grave

BRIDGETON, N. J., May 23.—(UP)—Robert Bond, 84-year-old cement block manufacturer, is ready for the end of his days, having completed a large concrete tombstone which is to cover his mother's grave and his own after his death.

Only one thing bothers Bond now. That is the question of whose hand shall carve in the stone the date of his death.

Bond, who has worked with cement for 30 years, experimented until he discovered the mixture which would give him precisely the right texture of cement for his tombstone.

CLOWN TO BE MADE BY S. A. CHILDREN

Wilford, the clown, will come into being tomorrow at the story hour at the junior library, when children attending will begin the fashioning of the marionette jester. When completed, Wilford will take part in many of the plays which are to be given during the coming story hours.

Tomorrow morning practice in the working of the marionettes will be continued, this intriguing part of the hour proving so popular on the last occasion that it was with difficulty that Miss Mary Bowyer, librarian, persuaded her small charges that they had stayed an hour beyond the time scheduled for them.

Chinese plays are to be featured this summer and a number of Chinese figures are to be fashioned in carrying out a play of seven Chinese characters. Cloth marionettes are being made at the present time, although a number of the children are still working on those of plastic wood.

Miss Bowyer will tell a story founded on a translation of "White Aster," a Chinese poem, and she will read the fourth chapter of the "King of the Golden River," and "The Pert Fire Engine." The question box will be a feature of the morning, as usual. The story hour opens at 10:30 a. m.

Bankers Elect Brownridge As New President

Alex Brownridge, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank of this city, was elected president of the Orange County Bankers' association at the annual meeting of the organization held at the Women's clubhouse, Orange, last night.

O. E. Hanson, of the Bank of America at Anaheim, was named vice president. Dean Colver, of the F. and M. bank here, was elected as secretary, and J. R. Porter, of Orange, was retained as treasurer, a position he is said to have held since creation of the association.

John McGroarty was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "Babylon." Approximately 150 men and women were present. The evening was concluded with dancing.

MUSICIANS JOKE ABOUT QUIZZING

Everett Hoagland and Dirney Talferro, of the Hoagland Troubadours, today were joking with friends about an experience they had yesterday when they were picked up by officers and quizzed as to their possible connection with the holdup a few weeks ago at the Fox Broadway theater.

Barney Burnhill and members of the state patrol were working their brake tests on West Chapman yesterday afternoon when Hoagland and his companion drove into line.

The officer brought them into the office of Deputy Chief of Police Sid Smithwick for quizzing. Identification of the two men were made later by friends.

"Hoagland answers in every detail the description we have of one of the men implicated in the holdup," Burnhill said today, in explaining why he picked up the musicians for investigation.

HIGH PRICE PAID FOR LOCAL FRUIT

Robert McChestney, of the Westwood municipal golf course, and Frank McDonald, of Los Angeles, today had paid the highest prices for oranges they ever expect to pay, and at the same time learned the lesson that gold-fruit hanging on orange trees along the public highways is not public property.

Chief of Police John Stanton, of Tustin, caught them yesterday afternoon after it had been reported to him that the two men had been seen helping themselves to fruit in the orchard of J. W. Rogers, at Red Hill and Sycamore streets, Tustin.

The two young men passed last night in the county jail and when they were taken before Justice of the Peace McCharles at Tustin they were fined $25. Parents of the lads were expected to pay the fines this afternoon.

GOLF PRACTICE SCHOOL OPENS HERE TONIGHT

Santa Ana's latest sports wrinkle, a golf practice fairway and school, will be opened tonight and will continue to operate thereafter every day except Sunday, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Glenn C. Hall, formerly of Tennessee, will manage the business. Hall has leased 15 acres on South Main street, just below Edinger street, and equipped the property with 3000 golf balls, tees for 20 players and four powerful floodlight to illuminate the course so that any ball driven may be visible for a distance of 250 yards.

Tees are lighted by special arrangement of 20 deflected lights. A putting green is now under construction.

2 CONVICTS FACE DEATH ON GALLOWS

SACRAMENTO, May 23.—(UP)—John Deering, of Oakland, and Frank Lopez, of Yuba county, Folsom prison convicts, will be arraigned in superior court here tomorrow morning on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Both are life prisoners and conviction under the California penal code would bring the death penalty.

The case is the result of an attack on Isher Bennett, prison band leader, whom the accused men are said to have stabbed several months ago. Bennett subsequently recovered.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Someone has said, "Jesus Christ is the savior of the world because He is the ideal of the world."

How courageous He was under suffering and loneliness! How unswerving was His faith in the Father's love!

The glory of His mission in the world is that He not only exemplified the ideal of life, but also bestowed upon mankind the power for triumph like unto His own.

It is not enough to admire Him; you must strive to emulate His example.

Draw near to Him for consolation and for strength, and you too will be able to go bravely on, with an ever deepening confidence in the Father's love.

DEADLOCK MAY BE BROKEN BY WEBB DECISION

Word has just been received at the office of the Santa Ana board of education that the question as to whether the school governing body is forced to secure permission of the city council before purchasing school property, has been referred to Attorney General Webb for an opinion.

The deadlock that has arisen between the school board and the council over the use of a site at the southeast corner of Flower street and Santa Clara avenue for placement of a new Jefferson elementary school, is the factor that has caused the matter to be submitted to the attorney general. The school officials have determined, after an exhaustive survey, that the site in question is the best available for the purpose, but the council, acting on the recommendation of the city planning commission, has refused to grant the board authority, as has been the custom in the past, to make the purchase of the property for school use.

Plans have been prepared for the new school by the supervising architects, Allison and Allison, of Los Angeles, and the board is anxious to proceed with the building program so that the new building may be constructed in time for use with the opening of the first term next fall. The ruling that the permission must be obtained from the city council before property may be purchased by the board has been sustained by the office of District Attorney Z. B. West, legal advisor for the school district. An opinion that this permission was not necessary has been submitted by Sam Cohn, chief deputy of the state department of education, who has just advised the board office that he has referred the matter to the attorney general for a ruling.

The opinion of the chief legal counsel for the state is expected shortly and will be forwarded to the Santa Ana board as soon as received by the state department of education.

BOB WILLIAMS GIVEN TERM IN FOLSOM PRISON

One prisoner was sentenced to Folsom prison for a term of not less than five years, another was released on probation, one probation hearing was continued until July 25 and five pleas were received in superior court today as result of matters coming before the court on the weekly criminal calendar.

Bob Williams, Los Angeles Negro, who was convicted recently of first degree burglary on his second jury trial, received the Folsom sentence from Judge G. K. Seovel, before whom the trial had been conducted. The fact that he previously had served a sentence in a Missouri prison led to the court selecting Folsom prison as the destination of the prisoner.

William Henry, rancher and auto mechanic who conducts a garage at his home, received probation for one year, after the hearing which was conducted before Judge James L. Allen. Henry had been charged with grand theft in connection with stealing an auto belonging to Harry Burroughs, on April 15.

Joel Hall and T. E. Metcalf previously had entered pleas of guilty and had been sentenced to prison on a similar charge. Henry had pleaded guilty and asked probation. It was stated in court today that he had acted in good faith, buying cars from the two men, but he said when he learned that they were selling him "hot stuff," he was under their influence and could not escape. Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins informed the court that neither the sheriff's office would contest the granting of probation, as they believed the man had been a cat's paw for the other two.

E. C. Posey, who has entered a plea of guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor child, requested that his probation hearing be continued until July 25, which was granted by Judge Seovel. Posey, according to the information previously filed by the district attorney's office, beat an 11-year-old boy with a razor strap while in an intoxicated condition, and drank intoxicating liquor in the presence of the child.

An information was filed by the district attorney's office charging Jack Harvey with issuing a bank check with intent to defraud. It is alleged that he wrote a check for $10 when there was not sufficient funds in the bank to cover the check. Harvey entered a plea of guilty and entered an oral application for probation. The hearing on the matter was set by Judge Allen for June 6.

Frank Orosco was arraigned before Judge Allen on a statutory charge and entered a plea of not guilty. The court set June 16 as date for the trial.

Thomas, John and Paul Knight were arraigned on an information charging them with contributing to the delinquency of two girls, aged 18 and 20. Pleas of guilty were entered by Thomas and John, who asked for probation, while Paul entered a plea of not guilty. Probation hearings for the two were set for June 6, while the trial of the third prisoner was set for June 16. These matters were handled by Judge Seovel.

Deputies Sam Collins and S. B. Kaufman represented the district attorney's office during the presentation of the matters on the criminal calendar today.

Girls To Sleep For Walkathon Crowd Tonight

Night before last a very wonderful and interesting sight was presented to the spectators in the form of the dressing room scene on the Walkathon floor. The boys, nine of them, took one of their regular rest periods on the floor in order that the visitors might see just what occurs behind the scenes. The same program will be repeated tonight.

The doctors and nurses were seen going about among the contestants, giving back rubs, foot rubs, and many other things which aid the nine weary couples in carrying on during the weary grind of each 60-minute period. The claxon sounded and not one of them moved. All of them slept right through it even though they were near the noise maker. Then came the funny part. It was necessary almost to dump them onto the floor in order to get them up from their beds.

All of this is going to be presented again tonight, in answer to many hundreds of requests. However, this time the girls will take their rest period on the floor.

The American Legion also announced that it has arranged for some new vaudeville for each night until the contest is over.

There are but nine tired couples left in the contest after more than 374 hours of weary, continuous motion.

ROLPH VISIONS GREAT PACIFIC COAST FUTURE

Mayor James Rolph, of San Francisco, in a brief address at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, at Anaheim, last night, predicted the building on the Pacific coast of the greatest empire in the world.

He envisioned in particular California of the future with a dense population, with industries of every type in large numbers, and American ships carrying products of the state to various foreign lands.

Following a custom of many years, the county body held a very brief session last night, adjournment being made in time to permit the delegates to go to the California Valencia show for the official opening by Mayor Rolph at 8 o'clock.

President J. S. Malcolm conducted the business session, which consisted chiefly of acceptance of the invitation of Seal Beach to hold the June meeting at that city and direction to Secretary Harry May to prepare and forward to the families condolences on the deaths of R. T. Davies of Fullerton, Dr. G. A. Shank of Huntington Beach, and A. B. Gleason of Sunset Beach.

H. N. White, president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, introduced Mayor Rolph. The San Francisco mayor was accompanied to the Mother Colony by John E. Lindsay and Arthur Pidgeon, of the northern city.

Malcolm Frazier, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce when the first Valencia show was held 10 years ago, was at the meeting. He is passing one week of a two weeks vacation in Anaheim, the first having been passed in a sanatorium for treatment for stomach trouble.

TELLS NEED OF BODY BUILDING SCHOOL GAMES

Development of a good physique and teaching boys and girls how to employ their leisure time profitably while young and when they become men and women are the big purposes of physical education in the public schools, it was declared by Walter Scott, physical director of the public schools, in an address yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club.

Pointing out that there is a misunderstanding of physical education by the older generation, and declaring that he had received communications from parents of the older generation criticizing the system, Scott said that critics seem not to appreciate the difference between conditions of today and those of a generation ago, when school children had plenty of exercise on the farm and by walking long distances to school.

Children of today do not have the same opportunity for healthful exercise, with the result that physical education is necessary to their development and to their enjoyment of good health, he said.

"Physical training develops and brings to attention defects in the bodies of boys and girls and paves the way for corrections," the physical educator said.

He pointed out that athletes teach boys and girls to give and take and equip them to meet the problems of the world when they become men and women.

George Ash was program chairman at the meeting.

Announcement was made that the annual installation party of the club would be held on June 19, at a place to be announced later.

DISABLED VETERANS TO ATTEND CHURCH

Members of Jack Fisher chapter of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War have accepted the invitation of the Rev. Harry Evan Owens to participate in the Memorial services to be held at the First Baptist church, 712 North Main street, Sunday May 25th. Commander H. C. Rasmussen announced that all D. A. V. members will meet at the American Legion hall at 10:30 a. m. on Sunday.

The next meeting of the Jack Fisher chapter will be on May 28, at which time a program will be outlined for Decoration day, including suitable memorial services at the cemetery in conjunction with the American Legion post, No. 181.

NEFF REPORTS DEVELOPMENTS IN ROAD WORK

One road and one bridge project are receiving attention at this time in the office of Nat Neff, county superintendent of highways, he reported today.

Studies are now being made, based on surveys recently completed, for the best route to be selected for the new road that is to be constructed up over the bluff where the new Newport Harbor Union High school is to be constructed, to provide access to the school from the south. The proposed road is to connect the state highway from the point where the bridge crosses the bay, with Newport boulevard in Costa Mesa. The studies being made in Neff's office are to determine whether to route the road by way of Fifteenth, Sixteenth or Seventeenth streets. The surveys were made in co-operation with the Irvine company, owners of the property in that vicinity.

Plans for the superstructure of the new Adams street bridge across the Santa Ana river near Huntington Beach, have been completed, Neff stated, and borings are now being made at the site of the old bridge to determine the kind of foundation that will be required before these foundation plans are developed. The bridge was declared unsafe for traffic by the board of supervisors some time ago, and plans and specifications for a new one were ordered at that time. Meantime traffic is being routed on a temporary route over the bed of the river.

Neff also reported that concrete for the six foot strip on the north side of West Seventeenth street in the 12 foot widening program between Huntington Beach boulevard and Los Alamitos cut off has been completed and that the contractors, Erice Brothers, are preparing the base for a similar strip to be poured on the south side of the road.

DR. MARTIN IS APPOINTED ON RESEARCH BODY

Dr. Charles E. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Martin, 1176 East Chestnut, and himself a former resident of Santa Ana, has been honored by appointment to the advisory board of the International Law Research.

Dr. Martin is dean of social science and professor of political science at the University of Washington, Seattle, and his appointment followed his return from a trip around the Pacific as Carnegie endowment professor of international relations credited to the universities of Japan, China, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

The International Law Research is a co-operative undertaking, financed by several of the leading American foundations, and enjoys the co-operation of teachers, jurists, practitioners and administrators who devote their time to international law matters. Leaders of the movement are George W. Wickensham, Frederic Coudert, James Scott, Charles E. Hughes, Ellihu Root and Jesse Reeves.

The work of the research for a number of years will be the preparation of codes of different subjects of international law which are to be used by the American delegate of the commission for codification of international law, which meets from time to time in Geneva.

Dr. Martin is associated with a number of jurists in the preparation of a draft convention on the law of piracy. He made some notes on this subject on his recent trip, especially as it effects coastal and river passenger and freight traffic in China.

Healthiest!

"My little daughter is the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. A. Priestley, 5535 So. Central Ave., Los Angeles, Cal. "And I want to give credit where it is due."

"Bertha was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow. The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.—Adv.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drug store.—Adv.

Murder Backstairs

AUTHOR OF "THE AVENGING PARROT" "THE BLACK PIGEON," ETC.

CHAPTER IX

As Dundee let himself into the house by the front door, hoping to evade the hysterical questions of the servants, who must have noted the arrival of the police cars, the door leading into the back-stairs quarters was open and a young man in chauffeur's uniform lunged toward him, pausing only long enough to slam the door viciously in the face of a maid who was pressing forward inquisitively.

"Excuse me, sir," the chauffeur panted. "But will you tell me what's up? What are the police doing here? Della, the upstairs maid, told me Doris didn't sleep in her room last night. It's not true, is it? Nothing's happened to Doris! The police aren't here about her, are they, sir?"

He was almost sobbing, and one big, freckled hand kept running distractedly through his curly, dark-red hair.

When Dundee hesitated to answer, the chauffeur so far forgot himself as to seize the guest's arm and shake it frenziedly. "For God's sake, sir, why won't you tell me? I'm Arnold—Eugene Arnold, the Berkeley chauffeur, and I'm engaged to be married to Doris. I have a right to ask if anything's happened to her—"

"I'm sorry, Arnold," Dundee said slowly, "but I can't speak for the police. Will you please wait as quietly as possible in the servants' sitting room until Captain Strawn calls for you? And I think it would be wise for you not to talk—"

"Then it is Doris!" Arnold interrupted, his voice going heavy and dull with despair. Then apparently realization swept over him. His freckled, pleasant young face flamed ed with anger. "Did she elope with Dick Berkeley, sir? Is that what the row's about? For God's sake, tell me!"

"Sorry, but I'm afraid I can't tell you anything, Arnold," Dundee said quietly, and started up the stairs.

"Gone! With that drunken rotter!" Arnold groaned and lurched blindly toward the back-hall door. But before he disappeared Dundee heard him vow with terrible intensity: "I'll find him and kill him if I have to hunt all over the world for him!"

"A violent young man," Dundee commented wearily to himself, as he plodded upstairs.

He hoped to gain the third floor without further interruption, but as he reached the second floor he heard the second door open and a young man in a dark-green jersey, a color which made her pallor quite ghastly.

"Why didn't you tell him that Doris had committed suicide?" she demanded coldly. "I imagine he would rather have had the news from you than from a policeman."

"Because I don't know that Doris committed suicide," Dundee answered, watching the beautiful, somber face keenly.

"Don't quibble with me!" she retorted, in a low, arrogant voice. "Gigi confessed to me on the way to the house that she recognized the 'mermaid' in the lake, and I watched from my window as you dived for the body and took it into the summerhouse."

"Where is Gigi now? Why aren't you with her?" Dundee asked sharply.

"You don't like me, do you?" Clorinda asked, with amazing irrelevance. "So few people do.... Gigi preferred to be consoled by Mrs. Lambert, as I was busy being rather sick at my stomach. Doris was one of the few people who liked me, and—I was very fond of Doris. I can't imagine why she should commit suicide, unless—"

She broke off abruptly, and Dundee saw a flicker of quickly controlled fear in her magnificent black eyes.

"I'm rather anxious to get into my clothes," Dundee excused himself curtly. Not for him, in the character of house guest in Clorinda Berkeley's home, to probe the meaning of that "unless...." By the way, Miss Berkeley, do your father and mother know yet?"

"No, I didn't fancy 'the task,' Clorinda retorted coolly. "There's nothing mother enjoys so much as a good fit of hysterics, and Father and I are not on confidential terms just now," she added, with bitter humor. "I see the police have arrived. They'll probably enjoy the sensation. I shouldn't."

Dundee proceeded up the stairs, grateful to Mrs. Lambert and Gigi for not bursting out upon him with questions he could not answer. Odd that Gigi should prefer Mrs. Lambert to her mother, though Dundee could not but be glad that it was the social secretary's gentle understanding which was now coping with the high-strung little girl's shocked nerves.

He went to his own room, thence, by way of the bathroom, to Dick Berkeley's. As he had expected and feared, the missing man had not returned. For the first time he tried the door leading into the hall. It was locked. Doubtless Dick had pocketed the key, to prevent his absence being discovered by anyone but Dundee, who had heard him make the rendezvous with Doris and who, he must have thought, could be depended upon not to give him away. But now, Dundee reflected grimly, it was no longer a question of shielding a friend engaged in an intrigue with a pretty servant. Doris Matthews had been murdered, and the hounds of the law would have to be set upon Dick Berkeley's trail.

Ten minutes later, decently clothed and sketchily shaved, Dundee sped down the backstairs and out of the house. A frightened cook and housemaid had peeped out at him, but he had given them no time to question him.

The machinery of the law had been set in motion during his absence. Captain Strawn and the coroner, Dr. Price, whom he had met during the investigation into the Rhodes House murders, were bending over the body of the dead girl, still stretched upon the curving bench of the summerhouse. The finger-print expert, Carraway, was already busy with his black powder and camera. Wickett, the butler, but Seymour Crosby was missing from the gruesome picture. A knot of uniformed policemen and plain-clothes detectives stood on the lake's edge, awaiting instructions from the chief of the homicide squad.

"Dick Berkeley has not returned," Dundee reported to Strawn, in a voice so low that Wickett could not hear. "Since he's still in dinner clothes—they're not in his closet—I don't think he could have got far without being noticed."

Strawn turned his back on the corpse, and jerked his head toward the immobile butler. "Got any reason to think the old boy's mixed up in this?" he whispered.

"None whatever!" Dundee answered sincerely.

"Then don't you think it might be a good idea to let him in on the secret of your official connection with the police?" Strawn suggested. "If this thing isn't quickly cleared up by a confession from Dick Berkeley and develops into a first-class mystery, we'll need Wickett as an ally. No one knows as much about a family like this as its butler, and besides, he can keep the coast clear of other servants while you snoop around in the bedrooms and such—"

"Just a minute, chief!" Dundee interrupted. "I agree with you that I might be of infinitely more value as a trusted guest, rather than as a detective, but—hang it all, I am a guest here, and I simply can't do it—snoop around in the bedrooms as you suggest—"

"Resigning from the force, because a friend of yours is mixed up in this, Dundee?" Strawn asked, a sneer twisting his broad, thin mouth.

"I don't think you mean that, Captain Strawn," Dundee answered quietly. "I want to be on the case, but I'd rather be open and above-board about it."

"And jeopardize your future usefulness on the homicide squad? Your uncle, the police commissioner, and I agreed after the Rhodes House murders that you could serve us best by not getting yourself tagged as what the people call a 'common detective.' With the education and social advantages you've had you can move in circles not open to the rest of us—"

"I know the argument, and I've been willing to be of service in any way possible," Dundee interrupted, "but in this instance I can't bring myself to abuse hospitality so flagrantly. There's another thing, too, as a guest, presumably under police surveillance as much as any other person in the house, I should have little chance to be of any real use to you. I couldn't be secreted behind screens while you were conducting your investigation, as I was at the Rhodes House, and not even Wickett's connivance could long cover my snoops from servants or members of the family. But if you want my official connection with the homicide squad to be kept dark, I have a suggestion to make."

"Well?" Strawn growled. "Shoot! We've got to get busy."

"You can give out that I am an amateur criminologist, engaged in research work preparatory to writing books on the subject—which is strictly true, by the way; that I have studied Scotland Yard methods and that I was able to render you valuable aid in solving the Rhodes House murders.... Otherwise, Chief, I'll have to resign now—with deep regret."

An angry retort trembled on Strawn's lips, but he bit it back, and considered scowlingly. At last he capitulated grumpily:

"All right, Dundee! You know I need you, but I'm warning you now that I'm in charge of this case, and I won't have you getting too big for your breeches.... Wickett!"

And the hunt was on.

SAYS MAYANS BELIEVED IN IMMORTALITY

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(INS)—

The ancient Mayans believed in the immortality of the soul. They worshipped but one God, and they did not practice human sacrifice.

Thus taking issue with persons who have credited the "lost race" with idol worship and human sacrifices, Robert B. Stacy-Judd, amateur explorer, returned from exploring the jungles of Yucatan, Mexico, has offered what he says is proof that the Mayans were a god-fearing people.

"They did not offer humans as sacrifices to their god," Stacy-Judd declared, "they used only fruits and flowers in their religious ceremonies."

"Ample proof of this is found in the friezes on the walls of the ancient temples, for these friezes tell the story of the race."

"It is true, that human sacrifices were made and that many gods were worshipped after the Nahuatl tribes, the Aztecs and the Toltecs, conquered the Mayans," he declared, "but this was the imposition of the conqueror's will, not an expression of Mayan beliefs."

Coffin-like crates filled with relics picked up on the floors of caves, which in centuries past were used as burial grounds for the Mayans, were exhibited by the explorer as he traced the vanished race down through the ages.

In other receptacles were bones and bits of finery which he got from ancient wells.

"It was a land of a lost people, and lost cities," Stacy-Judd continued, "and during the lapse of centuries since the Mayans were a proud race, the country has been claimed by jungle life."

Leopards pad softly down the streets of cities once trod by Mayan chieftains; reptiles glide through once sacred chambers, now crumbling into decay.

Stacy-Judd left Los Angeles February 10, last, journeying to Merida, the capital of Yucatan. Accompanied only by his native guides who could speak no English, he plunged into the jungle.

At Chichen-Itza the little band of explorers came upon the site of the famous sacred well where in almost forgotten days the conquerors of the Mayans sacrificed their most beautiful virgins to the god that dwelt in its limpid waters.

Fishing along the green slime, Stacy-Judd recovered bones, and pieces of Indian finery, which had been at the bottom of the well a thousand years or more.

Returning to Merida and then journeying farther south they came upon the famous Loltun caves. Here Stacy-Judd related one of his most awesome experiences that fell to his lot.

"It was a meeting with the hermit of Loltun caves."

"The Loltun caves, which were used at one time as a burial ground by the Mayans, have been visited by only two other white men," Stacy-Judd continued.

"After passing through several vast chambers and descending farther underground, we found, my two guides and I, that we had lost our way."

"We searched for the right passage back, but realized in despair that we couldn't find it. I was sitting there thinking of some way to escape when a weird figure suddenly appeared before me as if it had risen from the earth."

"It was an old man with a hollow gourd on his head, dressed in a few beads. He was incredibly old and bent and almost blind. My guides spoke to him in Mayan and after learning our plight he led us farther down into the earth, through cavern after cavern."

"I began to feel that we were doomed to death when suddenly we reached another vast chamber and at the far end a great shaft of sunlight showed the exit to the outer world. I can assure you that nothing ever looked so good to me before."

Lyon To Open Huge One-Stop Service Plant Tomorrow

SOUVENIRS TO BE PRESENTED AT DEDICATION

Pronounced one of the largest and most modern establishments of its kind in the west, the mammoth new one-stop service plant of the Roy J. Lyon Tire Service Inc., located at First and Main streets, will be opened formally Saturday with elaborate dedicatory ceremonies. The program arranged for the occasion is said to be one of the most extensive of its kind ever held in Orange county and thousands of motorists are expected to be present at the event.

Souvenirs will be presented throughout the day to all motorists driving in to see the plant. At 8 p. m. the plant will be dedicated formally, and an extensive musical entertainment and other festivities will be held. R. J. Cope, vice-president and general manager of the Western Firestone organization; R. C. Tucker, vice-president and general sales manager, and H. A. McKeller, manager of the Los Angeles Firestone factory branch, will be present and are scheduled to participate in the program.

RAPID GROWTH OF FIRESTONE PLANT TRACED

Tracing its history from a small tire shop in Akron of literally box-like proportions to one of the world's greatest industrial giants, the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company is now celebrating its thirtieth anniversary. It has been frequently said that in all the industrial history of America no more brilliant chapter is to be found than that written by Harvey S. Firestone.

In the original Firestone tire shop the daily productive capacity was a dozen tires a day, and

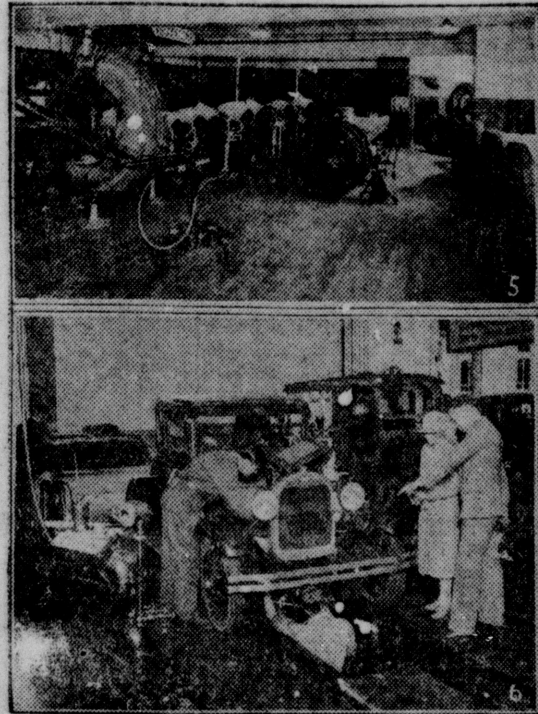

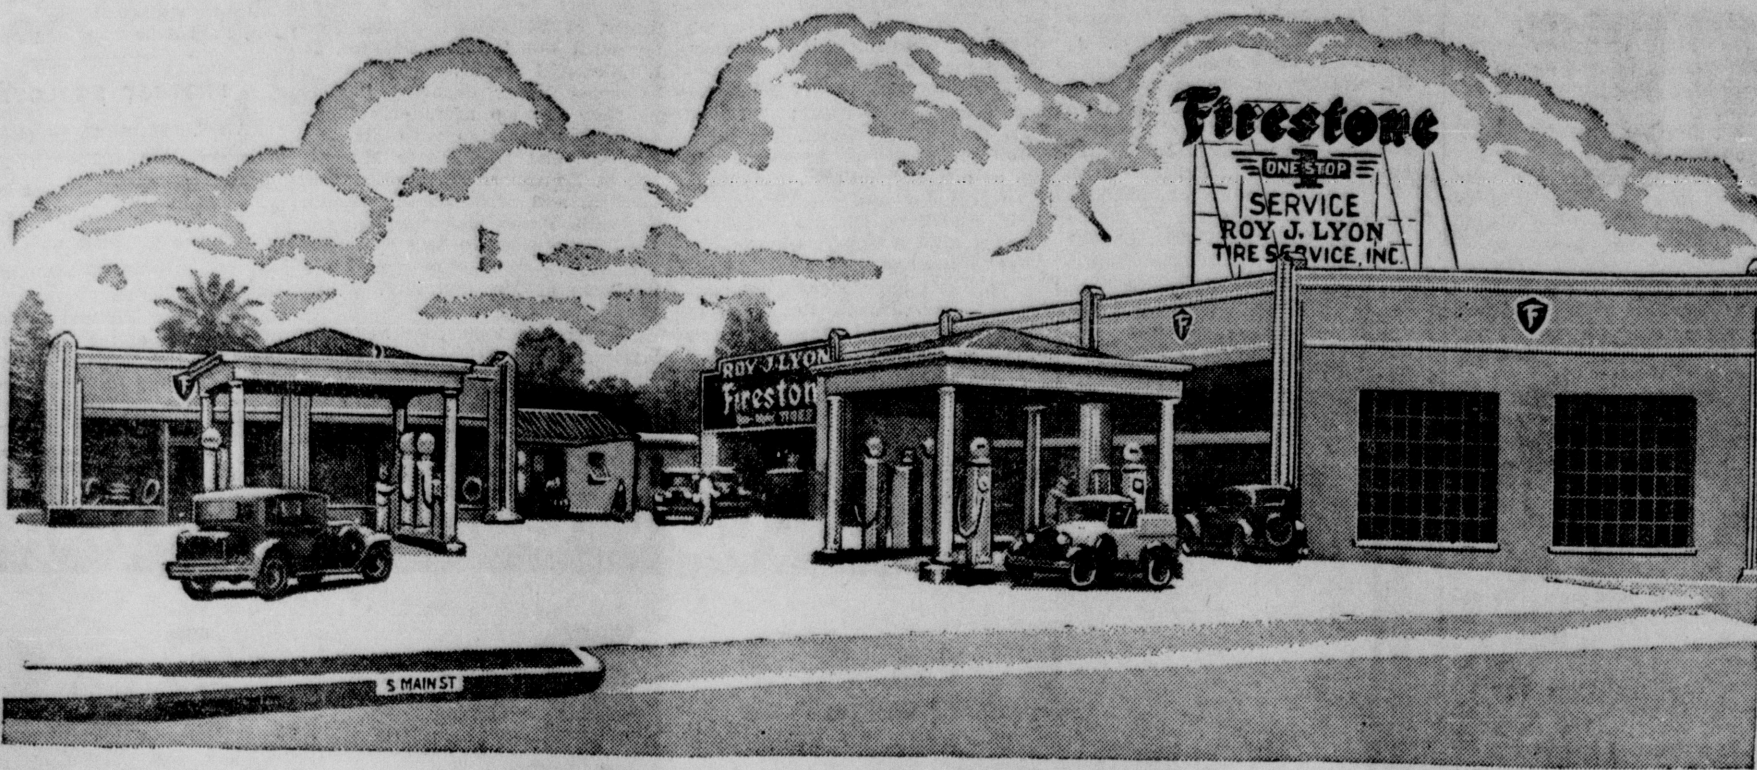

FIRESTONE TIRES IN GREAT DEMAND

The demand for Firestone gum-dipped tires is now the greatest in history, and the Los Angeles Firestone factory is operating at maximum capacity to satisfy the requirements of the western market, reports R. C. Tucker, vice president and general sales manager of the Western Firestone organization. Motorists are today using their cars more than ever before, he says.

"That the average motorist today is demanding the greatest possible tire performance is emphasized in the increase in sales of the new Firestone Supreme balloon, the latest and greatest achievement of the Firestone organization," explains Tucker. "Hard surface highways, powerful motors, boulevard stops, traffic lights and four-wheel brakes are products of the new era. Outstanding among the latest safety features of the Supreme are its super-durable carcasses and rugged non-skid tread."

NEW SERVICE STATION FOR FIRESTONE TIRES IN SANTA ANA

Below are pictured the mammoth One-Stop service station to be opened tomorrow at First and Main streets by the Roy J. Lyon Tire Service Inc., with views of the service facilities and a picture of Lyon. At the left, just under the station, is shown part of the huge stock of Firestone gum-dipped tires carried at the new plant. The lower photo at the left shows part of the service department. Roy J. Lyon is shown in the center, and at the upper right is shown a section of the tire repair department, where the latest equipment is used for repairing and retreading all sizes of tires. Below at the right is shown the greasing department, featuring the newest high pressure system.

Mr. Firestone personally helped turn out this production. Today, with the great expansion programs just completed at Akron and at the great Western Firestone factory in Los Angeles, and increased facilities at the Firestone tire plants in Canada and England, the Firestone company has a productive capacity of 80,000 tires and tubes a day.

In addition to the actual tire manufacturing plants, the thirtieth anniversary sees the Firestone company operating its own cord fabric mills at Fall River, New Bedford and Newburyport, Massachusetts, with a total of 201,900 spindles and the tremendously yearly capacity of 45,000,000 pounds. Another notable Firestone achievement of outstanding importance is the development in Liberia on the west coast of Africa, where rubber trees are now bearing on the first cultivated acreage of a huge 1,000,000-acre plantation. Reaching to another part of the world, Firestone is extending its activities in the East Indies where it maintains its own buying offices and a big plant in Singapore.

Mr. Firestone has been directly associated with transportation virtually all of his business life, first selling buggies and then entering into the production of rubber tires for carriages. Mr. Firestone's first business of his own was in a small shop he purchased for $1500 in Chicago. The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company was organized by Mr. Firestone in Akron in 1900.

With a small working capital, a bookkeeper and a stenographer, the young company began to make its impress upon the industry it was destined to serve. In 1902 the company issued additional capital stock and purchased a small factory, the forerunner of the present mammoth group of plants.

In 1905 when Henry Ford decided to build a car to be sold at a very low price, he gave Firestone an order for 2000 sets of straight-side tires, which was the largest order for tires ever placed up to that time. This Ford order presented real problems, first, to produce tires in this large quantity, and second, to find a concern that could build the special straight-side rims which were required in such large quantity, since the production of this type or rim had heretofore been very limited. These difficulties were overcome, however, and the order was delivered and proved a most satisfactory and serviceable equipment.

Virtually all writers who have analyzed the remarkable Firestone success have laid great stress on the wonderful organization spirit to be found in the Firestone company. The fact that every employee of the company is a stockholder is declared to be a powerful factor making for unusually high productive efficiency.

Mr. Firestone has played a leading part in advancing motor transportation, being credited with producing the first straight side tire, the first rubber non-skid tread, the first commercial demountable rim, the first patented gum-dipping process and the first balloon tire, according to R. C. Tucker, vice president and general sales manager of the Western Firestone organization.

LYON STATION SELLS GILMORE BLUE GREEN GAS

The coastwide popularity of Gilmore Blue-Green gasoline merited its selection by Roy Lyon for the big new super service station that he will open tomorrow.

More than 6,000,000 gallons of this patented gasoline are being sold each month and the ratio of increase in sales has exceeded every precedent in the gasoline business on the Pacific Coast according to D. T. Hayden, Santa Ana branch manager for the Gilmore Oil company.

"Gilmore Blue-Green gasoline is specially treated with a patented formula that attacks and loosens up carbon accumulations within a motor. The peculiar blue-green color is incidental as dye or coloring alone cannot improve gasolene. It merely serves to prevent substitution. This patented formula does not contain any poisons nor cannot injure any part of the car in which it is used.

"We expect to do a big volume of business in Roy Lyons Firestone Super Service station and increase the favor that this gasoline enjoys in Santa Ana."

with us in a great celebration, and we have arranged our program accordingly."

It is reported that the new Santa Ana Firestone establishment represents one of the heaviest investments ever made in any institution of its kind outside of the main metropolitan centers. The plant is a concrete expression of the Firestone policy that thoroughly efficient, organized service is vital to lowest tire costs and maximum tire satisfaction.

The Roy J. Lyon organization has long been noted for its highly specialized Firestone tire service, but this service has been raised to a vastly greater standard at the new establishment.

Complete stocks of the full Firestone line of tires are maintained at the new store to meet every tire requirement, from the individual motorist to the largest fleets of trucks and busses. A feature of the establishment is one of the most modern and efficient tire repair plants in the country, with the latest equipment for all size tire repairing.

The brake service department is another outstanding branch of this establishment. The Firestone-Cordway dynamic brake tester registers the exact braking power on each wheel. With this scientific equipment perfect equalization is assured.

Lyon points out that good brakes and correct alignment of wheels are absolutely vital to motoring safety and motoring economy. Many people, he says, consider brakes only in the light of safety, while they actually have a very important effect on the wear. Faulty brakes and misalignment of wheels, he says, are the principal causes of premature tire wear.

The battery and electrical departments are other leading divisions of this huge establishment. A large ignition plant provides complete electrical service, including starter, generator and magnets overhauling. A complete stock of Firestone batteries are maintained for every make of car or truck.

The lubrication department offers another striking example of automotive service efficiency. With the equipment in use a passenger car or truck can be completely greased in the minimum of time and with the utmost thoroughness.

After making a tour through the Roy J. Lyon plant, the motorist finds that the company is prepared to satisfy virtually any of his automotive requirements with the exception of mechanical repair, all in the one place.

Indications are that the turnout at the formal opening Saturday, especially for the big program in the evening, will set a new mark for an event of this kind in Orange county. "Everybody's welcome," says Lyon, "and it looks like just about everybody's coming."

Future Farmers Convene Tuesday In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, May 23.—The first annual banquet-program of the Garden Grove Future Farmers will be held in the Woman's Civic clubhouse Tuesday evening, commencing at 7 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting is to get the boys and parents interested and better acquainted with the work. Plans are being made for over 150 persons. Tickets are now on sale. Some prominent speaker from out of town is to be secured for the occasion, the boys will explain their work, musical numbers will be given by the Santa Ana Junior college male quartet and other interesting features will be provided for entertainment.

TALENTED ENTERTAINER

Little Miss Betty Jean Koster, who will dance tomorrow night at 8 o'clock on the program celebrating the opening of Roy Lyon's new service station at First and Main, is one of the youngest artists in this city, and one of the most popular. She will vary her dance numbers on the opening program with some of her cleverly rendered songs.

YOUNG DANCER TO APPEAR ON LYON PROGRAM

One of Santa Ana's youthful artists who has had much success in such fields as screen and stage work, and radio entertainments as well as in the varied programs in her home city in which she has taken part, is little Miss Betty Jean Koster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Koster, 802 South Garnsey street. Miss Betty Jean is to be a featured attraction tomorrow night at the formal opening of Roy Lyon's service station at First and Main streets.

While it is as a dancer that Betty Jean is more widely known, yet her natural talents as a singer and reader also have come into play for radio and stage programs, and tomorrow she will vary her dance numbers with clever songs. For her opening dance the youthful artist will present an entirely new number in the Skater's waltz, for which she will appear in a skating costume of bright blue velvet trimmed with white fur, and wearing high laced white skating boots.

A fast buck routine dance will be exemplified in connection with the song, "Happy Days Are Here Again." This will be a costume number also, and a third change of costume will be necessary for the soft shoe dance which will follow the chorus of the song, "Oh Henry." Mrs. L. L. Buell of 1044 West Sixth street, will play her accompaniments.

All of Betty Jean's training has been in Santa Ana where she has been a student of the Putnam School of Dancing ever since she was a very small child; indeed—she isn't so very big yet, being only in the second grade of school. Between her school studies and her dancing lessons, she has found time to appear in such film successes as "Sunny Side Up," and "Hot for Paris," while in the famous Gus Edwards "Baby Follies," she sang and danced in every sequence of the film.

She has made successful stage appearances in Long Beach and Whittier and after promising to appear at the Lyon opening, she was asked to be on the program at one of the Fox theatres in Los Angeles on Saturday night.

Yesterday, Betty Jean had a new honor when she received a hand-somely engraved certificate of membership in the famous "Mike club," made up of successful radio artists, and a club which has very few child members. The honor came to her through her two years of work on regular programs of a Los Angeles bakers' firm.

SHIN-BONE SKATES

LONDON, May 23.—Recent excavations in Scandinavia, northern Germany and the British Isles have revealed what is thought to be the forerunner of the modern skate. They are crude affairs, made of the shinbones of animals. By splitting the bones lengthwise, a flat surface was made for the foot. The round surface was used as the runner and leather thongs strapped the skates to the feet.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM FOR H. B. OUTLINED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 23.—The Memorial day program to be held here May 30 under auspices of the American Legion will begin with a patriotic parade. The parade will form at Triangle park at Fifth and Main streets at 10 o'clock on the morning of May 30.

The line of march will be along Main street to the end of the municipal pier where the ceremonies for those who died at sea will be held. The Rev. J. G. Gurst of the Christian church will deliver the Memorial day address and members of patriotic organizations will scatter flowers on the waters of the sea. The American Legion firing squad will fire a salute of honor and there will be a short musical program by the Huntington Beach Municipal band which will also lead the parade.

From the pier the patriotic organizations will go to the cemetery in Santa Ana, where the grave of Jack French, Huntington Beach boy, who was killed in the war, will be decorated in honor of all the soldier dead and where the firing squad will again fire a salute.

The Woman's Relief corps will provide flowers for the official program and all patriotic organizations will be officially represented.

In the afternoon there will be a band concert at the beach dance pavilion beneath the municipal pier. The program will close with the afternoon band concert and the chamber of commerce will have representatives at the beach to greet visitors. The life guard, Gene Belche, will be on duty at the ocean front and it will be the plan to make special entertainment provisions for visitors at the beach not only on Memorial day but on Saturday and Sunday as well.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

What tales of romance, what exciting adventures, and how many histories of noble endeavor are harbored by the coast of the Spanish Main, that crescent shore which bounds the western and southern sides of the Caribbean. This is the setting for "The Romance and Rise of the American Tropics" by Samuel Crowther.

Here the conquistadors conquered, the priests proselytized, and everyone searched for gold. In the Spanish conquest, uncounted treasure and manpower were sunk in building cities and cathedrals on the edge of strange jungles, and soldiers in heavy mail floundered to death on unblazed trails. This is the prelude to the era of republics, dictatorships and revolutions. In this period we see dark skinned generals in brilliant uniforms and scurrying men in rags carrying on guerrilla warfare in the mountains. The real burden of Mr. Crowther's story is the Yankee foresight and energy that has made the jungles of Central America produce, it was North American capital that planted bananas and sugar and coffee; that built railroads and steamships to transport the products to Europe and North America; and it was North American money that helped finance and stabilize the government.

We can easily see the color and beauty in the earlier period in the Caribbean. The later material development seems much more prosaic. However, Mr. Crowther has invested this latter phase of business conquest with equal romance.

In "The Business Biography of John Wanamaker" by Joseph H. Appel, we read of a great industrial genius. He started as a poor country boy. Fifty years later he was proclaimed by the President of the United States "the greatest merchant in America" and his store "a model for all other stores of the same kind throughout the world."

During this period he accomplished many things and introduced many reforms into the business world. He was the pioneer advertising merchant. The first stores staged with lavish exhibits and display rooms were his. The "money-back" custom was originated by him by offering to the public the privilege of returning unsatisfactory or unwanted goods. He also helped to establish in America, the one price system which eliminated the uncertainty of haggle and barter.

Here is the history of a great business molded by a single personality, conducted by a man who was an active citizen and philanthropist and at one time Postmaster General of the United States. The author shows John Wanamaker or largely through his own writings, whether newspaper advertisements or letters to his employees. He prints attacks made upon Wanamaker as well as the flattering addresses which were offered to him on the successive anniversaries. His book is many-sided—a manual of business success and salesmanship, of advertising, and publicity, which by its dramatic quality appeals to all lovers of biography.

Millions of readers over the world have found inspiration in Bruce Barton's "The Man Nobody Knows," "The Book Nobody Knows," and "What Can a Man Believe." These readers know him as a man who has done much to bring about a new sense of religion as an every day philosophy. Business men know him as one of the leading advertising executives and business thinkers of the country. His wide experience, his warm sympathy, his strong common sense, his relish of life have now gone into a new book "On the Up and Up." It is non-religious in character, never preachy, but is at the same time distinctly inspirational.

His philosophy of life is constant endeavor, "eternal work is the difference between the artist and the fiddler; enjoyment of the game, "the quality of humor increases as you proceed upward through the ranks of men;" faith in men "you believe in them, and when they succeed, you profit with them;" vision, "no man can afford to turn away the youth with new ideas" and the conclusion that "the really important things in life are a man's home, his wife and children, and where and how he happens to make the income that provides for them is more or less of an accident." This new book will delight Bruce Barton's old audience with its sane and sound idealism. It will, also, win for him a new audience which can better appreciate passwords to happy and successful living drawn from secular rather than from spiritual sources.

Others new books in the library are:

Adam, Pearl—Kitchen Ranging. Bolitho, William—Twelve Against the Gods.

Coolbrith, Ina—Wings of Sunset.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, May 23.—Charles Anderson is one of the scholarship and lettermen pupils of the Huntington Beach high school attending the distinguished service banquet Friday evening at the high school.

Mrs. Gordon Edward and Miss Marian Homes, of Whittier, were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Edward Tuesday. Dr. R. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Miss Virginia Anderson were among Westminister people who attended the Cantando club program in Santa Ana Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nausbaumer, of Riverside, were entertained at dinner by Mrs. Nausbaumer's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lawrence and Mrs. Lawrence's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Farnsworth and two daughters joined them in the afternoon.

Percy Lawrence attended the poultry school held Wednesday evening at Garden Grove. Leonard Moldal was the honor guest on the event of his eighth birthday anniversary at a picnic party given by his aunt, Mrs. Della Applebury, at Irvine park, when a group of relatives and small friends were the invited guests.

Lunch was served on one of the long park tables and an interesting time was enjoyed by the group gathered for the occasion.

Present were Leonard Moldal, Mrs. Zada Moldal, of this place, the great-grandmother, Mrs. Blodgett of Los Angeles, and her daughter and his cousins, Mable and Allene of Los Angeles; J. D. Herne and Francis, of Garden Grove, Marjorie Keller of Midway City; Mrs. Charles Applebury, Leonard, Betty and Pauline Applebury, of Smelter.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRADCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

America's Walker cup golfers would afford bigger tips this year than ever before...each of the eight players was given $300 for expenses aside from steamship tickets when they departed from our shores...Robby Jones somehow pulled a few strings with the U. S. G. A. to have the amount raised an additional 125 bucks...The Jewish race is the finest on this earth, says Jackie (Kia) Berg, England's Jewish lightweight...and if the Kid can win that lightweight crown himself he wants it to rest on the brow of Al Singer, the little Bronx Hebrew...Rumor has it that Jackie doesn't want to meet Singer because both are Jews... Seems we recall that there never was any love of that kind between Benny Leonard and Charley White, or Leonard and Lew Tindler.

WELTERS POP OFF

Young Jack Thompson is the new champion of all the welterweights, but to judge by the great ado among the lads of his weight, he won't be with us very long. No sooner had he blasted Jackie Finkelstein, I mean Jackie Fields, out from under his chapeau than the hustling and jostling for a crack at him began with loud noises from fight managers all the way from Bombay to Bangor.

To begin with, there is Jackie Finkelstein, I mean Jackie Fields, to consider. Jackie was promised a return match if he lost, and the chances are he'll get it. Young Corbett III, who has beaten Finkelstein, I mean Fields, and Jimmy McLarnin, who has beaten Finkelstein, I mean Fields, also must be considered as due for a crack at Thompson's somewhat solid dome. Sammy Mandell is almost ready for a bust at some welterweights, and down in Cleveland the managers of 20-year-old Paul Pirrone are trying to high-tail it and waving stacks of bills in the effort to get a crack at the title.

HOW GOODISHE?

There is a wide divergence in the views of the critics as to how good Young Jack Thompson is. This seems to be shared by those ambitious gents known as managers. Among the managers, Pop Foster, whose boy is Jimmy McLarnin, doesn't seem so crazy to have his young man tangle with Thompson again, even though Jimmy did manage to get the decision in a recent fracas before Thompson became champion. McLarnin, it was said, broke his hand and still beat Thompson, but among the lads at the ringside was heard many a carping and dissenting voice at the decision. Pop retains poignant memories of that broken hand, and was at the ringside the night Young Jack bruised Jackie Finkelstein, I mean Fields, out of the championship. When the two do meet—Thompson and McLarnin—it will be for money, with the challenger taking plenty.

Last December, Pop refused $40,000 to let McLarnin meet Fields, so he must have felt very odd about the affair as he sat at the ringside and watched Young Jack Thompson laying Jackie Finkelstein away.

LAY OFF THOSE

The Cleveland challengers are Tommy Freeman and Paul Pirrone and it will be just as well for Young Jack if he doesn't arrange to meet the two of them on consecutive nights. Freeman was about to beat Joe Dundee one balmy evening when a split lip gushed all over the place and ended the amenities. Exactly the same thing happened when Freeman met Fields, a short time ago. If Tommy can ever have that lip stuccoed, he will be tough to beat.

Paul Pirrone has had only about

Foust Washes Hands Of Exhibition Matches

CAMPBELL BOUT FLOP: GOEDERS DEFEATS MOORE

BY RINGSIDER

Promoter Henry T. Foust today felt like washing his hands of all future "exhibition" bouts.

He didn't get much of a break from Frankie Campbell and party at the Orange County Athletic club last night.

Campbell, so-called "New Dempsey" by reason of 13 consecutive knockouts over opponents of dubious ability, was the only one of the celebrities present that Campbell's manager, "Talkative Tom" Maloney, said under his own signature would be at the ringside.

Armand Emanuel wasn't there. Neither was Dave Shade. For that matter even Frank Muskie didn't show. Muskie was to have boxed the exhibition with Campbell.

Larry "Boxer" Campbell, Negro light heavy who used to fight as a middleweight in the days of Kid Mexico, Jack Iman and Ray Neal at Delhi, appeared against Campbell.

They hipopped three rounds, using immense "pillows" for gloves. Weaving and bobbing in clumsy imitation of Jack Dempsey, Campbell appeared wide open and an easy mark for a good kicker. In fact, Larry outscored him all the way.

In the main event, the real one, Joe Goeders was the pitcher and blond Roy Moore the catcher on Coach Foust's team.

Goeders won all by himself, having six of the eight hits. Moore surprised, at that. He was in much better shape than supposed, indicating he has made honest efforts to regain his old form.

Goeders Starts Fast
Goeders had a shade in the first round, then took the second by a tremendous margin. Once he shook Moore to his heels with a right that was felt all over the arena.

Moore took the play away from the Santa Ana boy in the third, a round in which the fighters exchanged long range potshots at each other's jaws. Moore had the better of it. Goeders was pleading slightly from cuts about the right eye when he went to his corner.

The fourth, fifth and sixth rounds decided the issue. They were all Goeders' rounds, decisively.

Joe had a 10-1 edge in the fourth, landing blow after blow without the semblance of a return.

Moore Is Staggered
He staggered Moore twice in the fifth and almost put him down. The sea was just as rough for Roy in the sixth, and the veteran looked like he was all ready to go for a ride.

Just when everybody was preparing for the obsequies, Moore came to life and won a round. He punished Goeders a bit in a neutral corner and rocked the local fighter just before the bell—

GALLANT FOX'S THRILLING FINISH IN KENTUCKY DERBY

It takes a handy guy like Earl Sande to boot them under the wire, whether it be Wood Memorial, Preakness or Kentucky Derby. Below is pictured the finish of the Kentucky classic, with Sande, dean of America's jockeys, piloting Gallant Fox (1), the favorite, past the finish line an easy winner by two lengths over Gallant Knight (2), whose lead over Ned O. (3) was equally convincing. "I talked 'The Fox' into his full stride," Sande said following the race, "and he moved right away from them. He's a great horse."

SAINT ELEVEN TRIUMPHS OVER ANAHEIM, 24-0

BY "SKY" DUNLAP

Mr. Football came out of hiding for his first real bonafide appearance in 1930 when the Santa Ana High school spring football team journeyed to Anaheim yesterday afternoon and made the Mother Colonists take the short end of a 24 to 0 score, making four touchdowns none of which was converted.

Coach "Tex" Oliver, giving his boys their first airing in real competition, displayed a fighting machine that has great possibilities. He used two complete teams, alternating to give each man a chance to perform under fire. The Anaheim players were unable to stop the Saints at any stage of the game.

Santa Ana's strength was quite apparent to the many scouts who hovered on the sidelines. The Orange league was well represented with Coach Bill Cole of Tustin, "Shorty" Smith of Brea-Olinda and a delegate from Huntington Beach in the vicinity. Fullerton also had a scout in the bleachers.

The first quarter was quite even with the Saints having a little better of the argument. Harold Pangle, veteran back, did the heavy work in the second and third quarters, and around end for some nice gains. Max Wilson, red-headed junior sensation, rallied the first touchdown when he broke through the right end of the line and pulled some spectacular broken-field running to the goal line.

In the next quarter, Pangle and "Toyz" Blower alternated in pulverizing the Anaheim forwards with Manderscheid making the second score on a line buck. Coach Oliver inserted 10 fresh men in the lineup just before the next touchdown which came when Captain Al Reboin threw a perfect 30-yard pass to "Red" Kidder.

The Saints will play the Colonists again but the date has not been decided. The clash was tentatively slated for Poly field next Thursday or Friday but as Friday is Memorial Day, Coach Oliver may put off the contest until the following week. It is probable that the first game of the annual interschool series will be scheduled for some day next week.

The Frances E. Willard baseball team defeated Fullerton high school's second team yesterday at Lincoln field, 8 and 6. This will be the last game before the Lathrop series which will start May 28.

In the first of the sixth, Fullerton tied the score to six-all, but Willard came back and made two runs. Montgomery and Noe walked. Meeler flew out to second base but Sparks walked and with Sprague's single two men scored. Willard held the visitors in the seventh and won the game.

NEW YORK FANS BUY OUT ALL PARK SPACE TO SEE BABE IN RAMPAGE AGAINST ATHLETICS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 22.—Around the headquarters of the New York Yankees, they are gibbering all over the floor space today, with a queue of importunate mugs reaching back to the bank of the elevators. It is a scene reminiscent of another day and a better day when the Yanks were champions and a world series was practically a New York institution but the club saw its last world series two years ago and may never see another. The answer?

The answer is a little word that speaks for genius in a guise that is almost grotesque in its physical absurdities—a little, four-letter word spelling Ruth.

The great man has stood the world on its apex with six home runs in the last two days and so tomorrow and Sunday the Yankees will play to a total crowd of more than 160,000 persons at the stadium, with the world's champion Athletics supposedly as the co-attraction.

The latter is largely supposititious. They may be paying their way in to see a couple of ball games but they are coming to see Ruth. Certainly the boys already have done everything that can be expected of them against an all-star cast like Grove, Earnshaw, Ehmke, Quinn, Rommel and Shores and it would be illogical to look for more. Ruth, in fact, has done enough to last him for a week.

In consequence of his three homers in Wednesday's first game, his two homers in yesterday's first game and his single homer in yesterday's second game, he has achieved the following within an interval of 36 hours:

Jumped his total from six home runs to twelve, to tie "Hack" Wilson for the intra-league leadership; drove in nine runs in two days, six of these coming in the opening game Wednesday; tied the record with five home runs in three games; tied the record with

Managers and players have been telling me that, having chivvied his way into the $30,000, Ruth no longer is the ball player he was. They must have been thinking of Ignatz the ice man. If Ruth is through, so is the Bank of England.

But New York knows that, once on a rampage, his possibilities are almost limitless and hence it is buying out the ball park for two days in the hope that the carnage will go on against the Philadelphia pitchers, potentially the best staff in the league if not in baseball.

Thus in a single week end, Ruth will write off his $30,000 worth of wages and the club will have enough left to keep the ground keeper busy keeping ground for the rest of his comical life.

Making the most of its six hits, Garden Grove won from Santa Ana, 5 to 4, in an Orange County "B" league night baseball game at Garden Grove last night.

This was the second contest between the two entries, the first one having been thrown out by President George Peterkin because Santa Ana used an ineligible pitcher, Joe Meme, of Anaheim.

The Chilpepper juniors scored three runs in the first inning. Santa Ana got one of them back in the first of the sixth only to have Garden Grove make a couple more in the last of the frame. A Bee rally in the ninth fell one run short.

Edwards Hits Homer
Singles by Hunter and Mark opened the contest. Kolb fanned but Edwards raised a fly to left which Al Jasper misjudged just enough to have it sail over his head for a home run that cleared the pathways.

Ebersole's walk and stolen base, Adams' single and a wild pitch gave the Bees their run in the fifth. Dorman walked in the sixth and Sands singled, both advancing on Wright's sacrifice. Norton scored Dorman with a sacrifice fly and Ebersole's life on an error let Sands race home with the 3-3 run.

The Chilpeppers got their other two in the sixth after Pitcher Ed Banta of the locals had fanned the first two men to face him. Kolb was safe on Banta's error and scored ahead of Edwards when the latter's sharp single went through Dorman.

Bees Rally In Ninth
The Bees' dying gasp was started by Adams who singled to open the ninth. Banta's single sent him to third from whence he scored on Dorman's sacrifice. Sands forced Banta at the plate for the final out.

Banta hurled brilliantly outside of his two bad innings, retiring the Grovers in order in five of the frames. He had nine strikeouts. Santa Ana goes to Olive Monday night. The Packer Juniors are leading the league without a defeat.

Santa Ana high school received more honors when the sophomore girls' basketball team defeated their opponents in the annual "Play day," held at Orange high school yesterday. The sophomores played Huntington Beach sophs. The score was 5 and 4. Both teams were evenly matched, tying at intervals throughout the game.

Saints Wind Up Baseball Tomorrow

Already holding undisputed lead in the Coast Preparatory league, the San Diego baseball team will go through the formality of playing the Santa Ana Saints tomorrow in the last game of the season to be played in the San Diego stadium.

Coach Bill Foote will take 15 men on the trek to the border city and intends giving most of them a chance to play. The Hilltoppers are undefeated and unless a miracle happens, will add the Saints to their list of victims. The recent San Diego-Long Beach game which the Southern won, 3 to 2, gave them the conference flag for the third consecutive time.

It is hazardous to guess who will pitch for Santa Ana because nearly everyone on the team is on a par but the choice will probably rest between Leo Gaspar, Alfred Peterson, James Daneri, Allen Kidder or Floyd Blower. Peterson and Kidder will catch, Fred Bell will be at first, Blower at second, Verle Moyer at shortstop and Captain James Hall at third. Hideo Higashi and Kidder will play left field, Bruce Smith will be in center and Neil Thornhill in right.

Other boys to make the trip are Harold Pangle, Bill Quon, and Jack McFadden and Carl Bower, managers.

They will be in surly mood tonight but so will the Stars, once greatest of all night ball combinations, who have lost almost as many games as they have won this year.

Reams of paper could be used in an effort to show why Anaheim should win tonight's affair, but the scorebook is a stern judge, and the burden of proof will lie in the agility of the Valencia defense and the power of its attack.

CORNELIUS AND OCHOA LIKELY MOUND RIVALS

Night baseball's high pressure act—the meeting of Santa Ana and Anaheim—quickens interest in the National league pennant quest tonight.

No matter what has happened before and no matter what occurs in the future, the Stars and the Valencias are still rivals, yea enemies, so the usual giant turnout will assemble around Anaheim's city park diamond although Anaheim is hopelessly out of the championship reckoning.

For that matter, Anaheim has not been such an airtight team itself since the clubs made the turn into the second quarter of their season. The Valencias completed the first whirl with eight victories as against one defeat, then proceeded to lose two in a row—one to Garden Grove and the other to Olive.

They will be in surly mood tonight but so will the Stars, once greatest of all night ball combinations, who have lost almost as many games as they have won this year.

Reams of paper could be used in an effort to show why Anaheim should win tonight's affair, but the scorebook is a stern judge, and the burden of proof will lie in the agility of the Valencia defense and the power of its attack.

Eddie Cox and Ray Griset, opposing pitchers, were both in mid-season form.

Santa Ana, 5 to 2, overpowering two Stars pitchers while Al Bushman was yielding only five bingles to the home batsmen. "Rosey" Merrill's long home run in the first inning and an outfield error in the third, producing an unearned score, was the main substance of the Stars' damage.

Important changes in the Santa Ana lineup appeared imminent today.

Darwin Scott, veteran third baseman, was not in the lineup at Fullerton Tuesday night and probably will not be among the starters tonight. Scott has been in a batting slump for several weeks, various things being contributory causes, and plans to rest a week or so. When "right," the little fellow is a fine, steady fielder and a driving hitter, probably the best on the squad. His layoff will not be permanent by any means.

Hill May Play Third

"Memphis" Hill, formerly a third sacker by trade, will shift to the hot corner if the temporary retirement of Scott is effected. Hill's place at shortstop will be filled by the fleet Leavitt Daley and Daley's station at second base occupied by none other than Outfielder Merrill who was a second baseman for Anaheim several years ago.

Bill Cole, captain of the Santa Ana forces, also may go to first base in place of Curt Youel, but this change is not official either.

Under any circumstances the outfield probably will consist of Wayne Nelson in left field, Orville Schuchardt in center and Randolph Bell in right. Nelson and Schuchardt are the team's leading willow wields.

The Santa Ana pitcher will be Joe Cornelius, former Brawley baker. Scoring records show Cornelius has not lost a game since he joined the Stars several weeks ago. This will be his first appearance on the mound against Anaheim, and for that reason the board of strategy believes he will be doubly effective.

Knows Pitching Art

Cornelius is not a fast ball slinger but he has shown a fine knowledge of how to pitch, and working with the smart little catcher, "Benny" Wilcox, has mixed up his "junk" with good results. Cornelius also is just about the best fielding pitcher that has ever worn a Santa Ana monkey suit and that is saying something because Joe Ochoa and Glenn Stockbridge knew what it was all about last season.

Incidentally, Ochoa will be Anaheim's starting moundman, according to grapevine gossip. This in spite of the fact that Al Bushman always has been Santa Ana's nemesis. Ochoa has been groomed carefully for the assignment, having done no pitching for the last week, and Manager George Pace is said to be convinced that Ochoa's blazing fast ones will be too much for his old teammates.

If Ochoa pitches, he will throw to big Tim Wallace, who is a Santa Ana Junior college football star.

Lou Schrott will be at first base, George Probie at second, Phil Schrott third and "Doc" Blakeley short. Rockwell, Pomeroy and Newkirk probably will make up the Valencia outfield.

Whittier Plays La Habra

No other games of particular consequence are scheduled in the National Night League.

Whittier's pace-setting Quakers entertain La Habra, a soft touch, and this one will give Manager "Rube" Ellis a chance to give some of his regulars respite from duty. With a chance to gain another full game on Anaheim if Santa Ana should bruise the Valencias, Ellis will see to it, however, that Whittier wins.

Probably the most excitement in this district, with the Stars away from home, will be raised at Orange where George Lackaye's former Santa Ana Bees play Huntington Beach. Kenny Walker is scheduled to pitch for the Orangemen and it will be Howard Morning or Johnny Norek for Huntington Beach.

Long Beach, an in-and-outer like Santa Ana, goes to Fullerton where it will find little opposition from a sadly disorganized team that is heading for the cellar as fast as it can go.

Garden Grove goes to Olive. These two clubs raise more red with the topnotchers than all the others put together. When they get together anything may and will happen.

Don Golfers And Court Men Play Long Beach J. C.

Rivalry between the Santa Ana and Long Beach Junior colleges will be renewed tomorrow when the golf and tennis teams of both schools play conference matches, the golf team at Santa Ana and the tennis squad on the beach courts.

The golf tourney will be played either at the Santa Ana County club or on the Willowick public course. Ben Peterson, Leslie McDonald, Erle Twist, Stewart McPherson and Charles Van Pomeroy will comprise the local squad. The Dons have won and lost one match and have three forfeits from other schools to their credit.

The tennis team has won three matches and lost three and will be on even terms with the Vikings. "Toby" White, Julius Kusel, Cardwell Oglesby, Marquise Hare, Wilbert Buescher, Bruce Harding, Charles Adams and Gerald Zolla will oppose the Norsemen.

Both the golf and tennis teams will finish their schedules next week against Fullerton.

CAMPBELL'S MATCH IS DISAPPOINTING

but it was only a flash of the old Moore class.

It was the same old story in the tenth. Goeders set the pace and scored at will, throwing punches with both hands. Most of them took effect somewhere.

Moore walked uncertainly to his corner at the bell, pretty badly bashed up. He is about ready to go to work. There is no sympathy in the sport of boxing for veterans who lose.

Shipley In Joe's Corner

Roger Shipley, Goeders' new manager, was in the Santa Ana's corner while Billy Darnley, who used to handle him, appeared behind Moore.

Casey Risko squared accounts with Joe Reese in the six-round semi, winning Referee Joe Rivers' decision. Reese had an edge last week.

Risko's last inning finish caught Rivers' eye. They were about even coming into the straightaway. Risko had the first two. Reese the third and fifth with the fourth even. It was a fast moving fracas.

Paul Gomez broke Mickey Thomas' winning streak in another six-rounder. The first three were close but Gomez had too much reserve for the smiling "Tommy" and when he stepped on the gas Mickey couldn't quite keep up the pace, although he tried hard.

Martinez Stops Fredericks
Johnny Martinez stopped Al Fredericks, clowning veteran, in the first round.

Eddie Serrano outpointed Emil Jure all the way, winning every round.

Milford Berglund will head the card next week. The good-looking little Swede got a nice hand when he was introduced.

Bert Colima, ever popular Mexican middleweight, occupied a ringside seat. He was given an ovation.

The house was about a third capacity.

CAMPING DATES ANNOUNCED FOR Y. W. MEMBERS

Information regarding summer camping dates for both senior and junior high school girls, was given out today by Miss Nancy Elder, secretary of the local Y. W. C. A., under which both Camp Emma Otis in the mountains near Madame Modjeska's home, and the girls' division of Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains, operate.

Camp Emma Otis will open immediately after the close of the city schools, and will be available to junior high school girls in three periods between June 17 and 26. The first period will be from June 17 to 20; the second from 20 to 23, and the third, from 23 to 26. It will be an Orange county camp, each group to be limited to 15 girls, who will be under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Cartwright, Santa Ana Girl Reserve secretary; and Miss Edna Munford, Y. W. C. A. secretary for the north Orange county district.

Miss Cartwright and Miss Munford will have the assistance of the Misses Josephine Winslow and Maybelle Ball, college-trained young people selected for their ability along certain definite lines. The girls will sleep in the open on cots provided by the camp management, and their activities will include hiking, dramatics, handicraft, first aid, chapel and camp fire programs.

Registration should be made at once for any one of the three periods, through the Santa Ana Y. W., telephone 2081.

The senior high school girls' camp at Osceola, the Orange county Y. W. C. A. camp in the San Bernardino mountains, will be from August 8 to 15, with leadership under Miss Edna Munford and Miss Cartwright. They will have the assistance of eight sub-leaders, picked for special abilities. The actual set-up of camp will be accomplished by a group of girls immediately after school closes. When the season begins, the senior high school girls of the county will find, in addition to the usual summer program of swims, hikes, woodcraft and camp craft, such added attractions and studies as first aid, basketry, pottery, weaving, etc., in addition to the enjoyable evening campfire entertainment.

Those wishing further information regarding the plans, may call Miss Elder or Miss Cartwright at the Y. W., 2081.

The accident is said to have occurred May 10 near Pismo Beach, where Mrs. Lambdin has been making her home since her husband's transfer to that section. Others in the car escaped injury when the brakes are said to have locked when the driver

Mrs. George Greder, of Santa Ana canyon, attempted to pass another car on a curve. The party were starting on a fishing trip when the accident occurred.

The Lambings expect to return to Anaheim later to make their home.

Santa Ana Legion Announces Memorial Day Plans

VETERANS WILL HONOR DEAD ON MAY THIRTIETH

Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, will hold its first Memorial day ceremonies on Friday, May 30, it was announced today by Ed Kolba, secretary, following a meeting of the post last night.

The ceremonies will be entirely separate from the cemetery program of the Civil war and Spanish-American war veterans. Graves of World war veterans will be designated by a small flag and flowers will be placed on them by the veterans.

Ceremonies will be held at the mausoleum at Fairhaven cemetery at 9 a. m. Theo. Bolte has been appointed to be in charge of registration.

The Legion will co-operate with other patriotic organizations of the city in memorial services at the First Baptist church Sunday, at 11 a. m. Legionnaires will assemble at the hall on Birch street at 10:45 a. m., and march in a body to the church. The Rev. Harry Evan Owens, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the ceremonies at the cemetery is composed of Wm. Iverson, Robert Walker, Charles Van Wyk and Claude Sleeper.

With the post paid up membership now standing at 553, the drive for membership will be intensive between now and the close of the campaign on June 12. Plans for a whirlwind close were discussed last night and Robert Walker added an incentive to harder work by pledging a chicken dinner to the team of four men making in the largest number of new and delinquent members between last night and the close.

AMERICA ARRANGES JESUIT EXPOSITION

PARIS, May 23.—(INS)—Dr. Gilbert Chinnard, professor of history in Johns Hopkins university, has been named American representative in the retrospective section of the International Colonial exposition to be held in Paris in 1931.

According to an announcement Dr. Chinnard has been charged with the gathering together of historical data dealing with the exploits of the French Jesuits, such as Pere Marquette, in exploring the upper reaches of the Mississippi. The doctor will also obtain material concerning the pioneer work of French Huguenots in colonizing Georgia and South Carolina.

It is hoped that the journal of Pere Marquette, now at St. Mary's college in Montreal, along with his

POPPY DAY IS HERE AGAIN

Members of the Santa Ana American Legion Auxiliary shown below will shower the city with poppies tomorrow in observance of their annual custom of selling the bright bouquets as a means of raising funds for their welfare work. Those in the picture, from left to right, are Mrs. Fanny Reeves, Mrs. Harriett Mitchell, Mrs. Emma Penn, Mrs. Ruth Jelis, Mrs. Mabel Thatcher, Mrs. Betty Gowdy, Mrs. Edith Schaniel, Mrs. Bernice Knight, chairman of the group, Mrs. Myrtle Cain, Mrs. Grace Lepper and Mrs. Ann Leimer.

GIANT COUSIN OF MOUSE NOW IN BOSTON ZOO

BOSTON, May 23.—(INS)—Carlos Francisco Iturbide y Mendoza, but who will answer any call to eat, is the newest member of the animal family at the Franklin park zoo in Boston.

Carlos Francisco, weight 40 pounds, address somewhere in South America, and a member of the Cabayas family, is a giant cousin of the house mouse. He was the first of his kind to ever make his home here.

Cabyaras are the largest of all rodents and are common through the greater part of South America. They are rather delicate in captivity away from their native country, though they are often kept there as house pets. They are brown and coarse, and enjoy a swim, and often weigh 130 pounds when full grown. "A giant guinea pig" is the way the cabyaras are often described.

Carlos Francisco, etc., arrived in the same shipment with six scarlet ibis, a pair of Orinoco geese and two Keas, or "mountain parrots," the latter being natives of New Zealand.

A crucifix and prayer book may be loaned for the exhibition.

Doctor Chinnard also hopes to obtain the loan of the Bible used at the Huguenot church at Charleston, Ga., three hundred years ago.

LIQUOR AND 'WOODEN HEADS' COMPARED IN WINNING ESSAY BY FRANCES WILLARD PUPIL

You can get along with a wooden leg but you can't succeed with a wooden head, according to Robert Robinson, writer of the essay printed below. The paper was judged to be the best in the seventh grade of the Frances Willard junior high school, among the group entered in the W. C. T. U. essay contest on "Why Flyer and Driver Should Obey the Liquor Laws."

BY ROBERT ROBINSON

Dr. Charles Mayo said that you can get along with a wooden leg but you can't get along with a wooden head, and that's the truth.

If you drink liquor you are bound to get drunk and not know what you are doing. Drunk people have wooden heads when they drive an airplane or an automobile and they usually have a wreck. So it's better to have a wooden leg than a wooden head.

A person who drinks liquor is usually not so healthy as others who do not. Liquor poisons their bodies.

There is a saying, "If a person drinks and gets wild and dangerous he should live alone."

We boys and girls have a chance while we are young to be good citizens and not to drink liquor and break down our bodies. If we abstain from drinking liquor we will be better citizens, and we will abide by the laws. We should not forget that it is a clear mind that counts, so in order to have a clear mind we must not drink liquor.

If a person drinks he is breaking the law if he attempts to drive an automobile or an airplane. One drink may land you in the jail and cause you to lose your license.

The railroad men have a rule "If any one on or off duty is caught drinking liquor, he is fired from the job."

The only thing that Lindbergh drank was water. If he drank liquor do you think that he would have made the trip from New York to Paris? No. Why? Because if he did he wouldn't have had the nerve to go across the Atlantic Ocean. He would have been afraid and if he hadn't been he would probably have fallen into the ocean.

When Lindy came to Paris they offered him some wine, but he wouldn't touch it. He put it to his lips and pretended to drink.

Every person is free in the United States to do as he pleases, but he is not free to drink liquor especially when he is driving a car or an airplane.

Every year there are thousands

BOYS LIBERATE 19 IMPOUNDED CANINES

BUTTE, Mont., May 23.—(UP)—"Guess we might as well get that one too," said one dog catcher.

"Sure, let's go," answered the other and the pair hurried down the street after a slinking cur, deserting their pound wagon in which were 19 yapping, barking dogs all condemned to die unless somebody produced money for a license.

Eventually, the weary dog catchers caught their 20th dog and returned to the pound wagon. The wagon was still there but the dogs had disappeared.

Shrill shouts of juvenile dog lovers and the retreating forms of 19 canines told the tale. Brave little boys had opened the pen and released the captive animals.

Employ Movies To Boost Birth Rate

PARIS, May 23.—(INS)—Movies are going to try to put babies into some of France's empty cradles. An educative film, entitled "France in Peril," will show that the birth rate has been decreasing during the past 60 years.

Numerous interesting facts are set forth, such as that relative to the combined area of Germany, Belgium and Holland, which is less than that of France though the combined population is twice as large.

RED BLOSSOMS WILL BE SOLD BY AUXILIARY

Red poppies will bloom on the coats of Santa Anas tomorrow, and dimes, quarters and dollars dropping into the American Legion auxiliary poppy contribution boxes will go toward a nation-wide gesture to bring sunshine to the bleak lives of thousands of disabled veterans and their families.

Poppy girls will wear the well-known Legion auxiliary smocks of blue, with gold trimmings, and will be on the streets from seven in the morning until everyone of the 6000 blossoms is sold.

Climaxing a memorable month with the poppy sale tomorrow and a joint church worship with other patriotic organizations at the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, the Legion auxiliary will direct its next efforts toward making the visit of its national president, Mrs. Donald Macrae, of Council Bluffs, Ia., on Wednesday, May 28, a memorable one in the annals of the organization.

The affair, a luncheon at St. Ann's inn, is in the hands of Mrs. Gertrude Collier, and reservations must be made with her or Mrs. Myrtle Cain as soon as possible. This was the request today of Mrs. Agnes Struble, the local unit's president, who is hoping that a large percentage of local auxiliary members will avail themselves of the opportunity to meet Mrs. Macrae and to hear more about the work of the Legion and Auxiliary.

Advocate Bounty On Dead Robbers

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—Aroused over recent depredations of bank bandits, bankers of Los Angeles have moved to put a heavy bounty on dead robbers.

The Los Angeles Clearing House association had under consideration the proposal of George L. Browning, president of the Seaboard National bank, to pay $10,000 for the bodies of bandits.

"The Bankers' association does not want live robbers," Browning said. "We want dead ones. We contend it costs the state too much to try live ones, and the best way to remove the hardened criminal is to kill him in the act."

Plan Monument to Ruler Of Gypsies

BUDAPEST, May 23.—A marble monument will be erected to the late "Gypsy Majesty," Bela Radics, who was known all over Hungary as the "King of Gypsy Musicians."

After the recent death of the gypsy king, a national meeting of Hungarian gypsies was convoked in Budapest and a resolution passed to honor the memory of their deceased leader like that of a royal personage.

The unveiling of the monument will be marked by a meeting of thousands of gypsy musicians and dancers in Budapest.

REV. COBB WILL PRESENT SERMON

The Rev. Ralph C. Cobb, pastor of the Church of the Foursquare Gospel in Fullerton, will speak at the service of the Santa Ana Foursquare church tonight.

At 7:30 p. m., a rousing song rally will be conducted, with a short musical program. Following the program, the Rev. Mr. Cobb will conclude the service with his sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Cobb is well known in the Foursquare movement, having visited many of the outside churches of Angelus temple, and having worked at the temple for some time. He is at present pastor of a thriving church in Fullerton.

Alice Wilson Parham, pastorevangelist of the Foursquare church of Santa Ana, will speak and conduct a special service in the church at Pomona. Following her message 25 converts will be baptized. The Rev. Wilfred C. Parham, former assistant pastor, is at present acting pastor of the Pomona church.

MAN GETS MIXED ON CHILD'S SEX

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—The humanness of human nature was exemplified in a scene at the teller's window of the Emigrant Industrial Savings bank here recently.

A few weeks before a young man had come into the bank and opened a small account in trust for his infant son.

Then he appeared at the teller's window again.

"You remember that account I opened for my son?" he said "I'd like to change it—to transfer the account to the name of my daughter."

The teller checked his lists. "But it's only ten dollars," he said, "Why don't you leave it in your son's name, and open a second account for your daughter?"

The man hesitated—stammered—and blushed.

"But—it wasn't a son!" the young man said.

COLORADO HARBORS MAN WITHOUT HOME

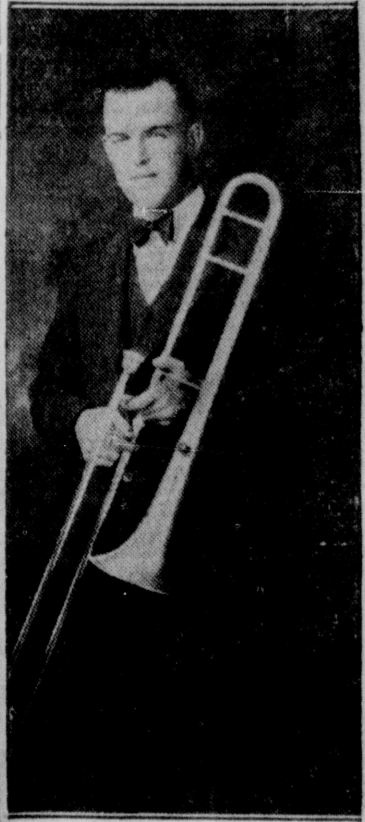

CANON CITY, Colo., May 23.—(INS)—Another "man without a country" is causing worry for United States immigration officials here.

Louis Papos, a Greek alien, who recently completed a term in the state penitentiary here, is being held in county jail. He cannot be deported to Greece, as the latter country has repudiated his citizenship, and he never became a citizen of this country.

Papos cannot be deported; Greece doesn't want him. The United States doesn't want him, and Fremont county is wearying of maintaining him in the county jail, and demanding that some Solomon in the immigration department find a solution quickly for disposing of the unwanted boarder.

MUSIC WORLD IS UPSET BY ELECTRICITY

PARIS, May 23.—A few years from now the good old symphony orchestra may not be what it used to be, what with quarter tone pianos, electrically amplified string instruments, and new fangled musical depatures of the envergure.

This city who heard the first quarter tone piano in action, has now also witnessed the premiere of a new violin capable of producing tones which, according to enthusiasts, no violin has ever brought forth before.

The instrument looks like an ordinary "mute" violin without sound box, connected by a wire with a diaphragm enclosed in a phonograph-like box.

The vibrations produced by the bow touching the four strings of the new violin are transformed into electro-magnetic vibrations which pass through a series of transformers finally to be received by an amplifier producing the tone. At the presentation, which was attended by the aristocracy of the Parisian music world, a woman artist played the instrument to the accompaniment of a full symphony orchestra.

The sound, amplified by electricity, soared above its background of strings and brass in Mendelssohn and Saint-Saens concerts.

The inventor, a Russian named Makhonine, declares that he has applied his procedure with detached amplification sound boxes also to violas and cellos, which he intends to present in Paris shortly.

Bridge Luncheon Is Given In Honor Of Mrs. Lacy

One of the lovely affairs of the week was the bridge luncheon given yesterday in the spacious home of Mrs. Charles Kelley, 1211 North Broadway, when Mrs. H. S. Van Dien and Mrs. Otto Haan were co-hostesses with Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Mark B. Lacy was the honor guest.

Blue larkspur and Scotch broom were attractively combined in the decorations and baskets of quaint, old-fashioned May flowers were placed down the length of the smartly appointed luncheon table. Place cards were porters carrying baggage, and the travel motif was also carried out in the tallies for the bridge game, as Mrs. Lacy, who with her husband and small daughter, Billy, will leave soon for the east on the first stage of a tour around the world on which they will be away for about five years.

Less were molded in the form of ocean liners and Mrs. Lacy was showered with handkerchiefs appropriate for many occasions, the dainty bits of chiffon and lincens being of a variety of dainty pastel tints.

First prize as the bridge game went to Mrs. Charles Harberson of Anaheim. Those hidden to the event were Mrs. Walter Mucken-thaler of Fullerton; Mrs. Gilbert Kraemer and Mrs. Edward Backs of Placentia; Mrs. Charles Harberson and Mrs. Ben Yorba of Anaheim; Mrs. Ray Chandler, Mrs. Lella Frankheim, Mrs. J. N. Maroon, Mrs. Emory White and Mrs. Charles Claytor.

Garden Party Is Planned By Senior Guild Members

Among the many attractive affairs planned by women's organizations for the month of June, is the Garden Party of the Senior Guild. The affair will be held on the afternoon of June 5, from 2 until 5 o'clock. The lovely secluded garden of the Charles G. Twist home, 1520 North Main street, will be the setting for the function. Mrs. Harry Spencer is general chairman and she will be assisted by Mrs. C. G. Twist, Mrs. H. A. Stone, Mrs. C. S. Dunphy, Mrs. Fred Pope, Mrs. Ethel Hart and a group of young people.

Tables for bridge will be provided. Under the direction of Mrs. Snow P. Freeman and Mrs. Mary B. Robertson a program of delightful entertainment will be given. The program embraces dancing, music, contests and other entertaining features.

Plans are also being formulated for a fashion show featuring charming summer frocks. Several noted members of the screen world have been asked to be among the guests and in the receiving line. Reservations for tables may be made over telephone 3399-J.

Bridgettes Entertain With Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hardy, 1007 West Canille street, were hosts to the Bridgettes Wednesday evening, when a delightful dinner was served to the members and their husbands. The prettily appointed table was centered with roses.

Those present were Mesdames and Mesdames John Turton, G. F. Ludlow, Wilbur Getty, Everett Corneil, Clifford Thatcher, Hugh B. Ray, Kenneth Stowe, James Board, Roy Waldren, Ralph Mitchell, Elmer Snyder, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hardy.

Klean Kut Club Holds Luncheon Meeting
The Klean Kut club met at the home of Mrs. O. P. Turner, 2141 Greenleaf street, yesterday afternoon for a delectable one o'clock luncheon. Roses in blending shades of rose formed the attractive bouquets adorning the three tables.

At the conclusion of the bridge games, it was found that Mrs. Raymond Couch held high score, while Mrs. R. C. Edwards held second. Dainty prizes were awarded the winners.

Tickets Go on Sale For Anticipated Concert

The anticipation of the concert which George Stinson, Santa Ana's famous "singing cop," is to give at the Anaheim amphitheater together with Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, on Saturday night, June 7, under the auspices of the American Legion, H. O. Rasmussen of the Santa Ana Legion, today stated that tickets for the event would be on sale in this city at four separate points. These will be the Shafter Music store on North Main street, the Santa Ana Book store on West Fourth street; Kelley Drug store at Fourth and Main streets, and the Electric Shoe shop, West Fourth street.

For general Orange county patrons, tickets have been placed on sale at various points throughout the county, with each city having several stores where they may be obtained. The sales have been unusually good, declared Rasmussen, indicating the widespread interest in the concert.

Mrs. Schumann-Heink's love for "her boys," as the Legionnaires are known, and her deep interest in Stinson's musical career, are facts that everyone knows and that lend interest and attraction to this concert at which she will appear with the popular "singing cop." Legionnaires in charge of the plans, have extended special invitation to various celebrities to be present, including Gov. C. C. Young, Byron Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney and gubernatorial candidate; and Eugene Biscailuz, superintendent of the state vehicle department under which the traffic officers operate.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will have an honorary escort that evening of the Orange County Drum corps, which has won such attention at various patriotic meetings and conventions.

Mrs. Timm Is Hostess To Rankin Society

Rankin's Co-operative society was pleasantly entertained last evening when Mrs. Fred Timm was hostess in her cozy home at 1318 Orange avenue, to members of the organization.

Following the regular business of the evening, an interesting impromptu musical program was provided by several of the girls of the society. Dainty refreshments were served late in the evening.

Those present at the monthly meeting were Mesdames O. McIntire, B. Barnard, J. Castle, Edith Davidson, E. Finch, F. Peters, C. McCord, Ella Paupel and little daughter, Doris Lorraine, and the Misses Jane Crawford, D. Benadicks, Evelyn Greider, Jeannette Hammerstead, A. Peterson, Lucile White, Marie Nelson, Marie Hoe-bridge, and Curtis Pierson, Fred Timm, and the hostess, Mrs. Fred Timm.

Acolian Club Holds Last Meeting of Year

The Acolian club of the First Presbyterian church closed a most successful season with a concert in the church auditorium last evening, when members were greeted by an exceptionally enthusiastic audience.

Early summer blooms formed beautiful decorations which had been arranged by Mesdames George Lewis, John Talbot and E. B. Sprague.

Miss Ruth Armstrong, organist of the church, directed the group, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Diedrich. Although this was the last of this year's programs, the work is to be continued next year, and it is expected that there will be many interested new members.

Following the concert, the club went to the home of Mrs. Alex Rez, 825 North Parton, one of the members, where they surprised her with a birthday celebration. Delicious refreshments were served. Members present were Mesdames A. E. Chapman, F. E. Dearth, W. W. Anderson, M. B. Hamilton, Ben Patton, L. B. Lauderbach, Zittella Bacora, Lulu Johnson, Lida Wilcox, E. L. Redford, Marie McKean, Alex Rez, Jasper Osborn, Daniel Muskoff, E. L. Morrison, J. W. Hancock, J. H. Nicholson, C. W. Diederich, accompanist, and Miss Ruth Armstrong, director.

The concert early in the evening consisted of several bright and colorful numbers, "Neapolitan Nights," by Kerr-Zamecnik; "Marianina," and Italian folk song.

A special feature of the program was three violin solos, one of them an encore, by Miss Georgia Belle Walton, whose usual brilliance and style were entrancing. These numbers were "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak, "Moto Perpetuo" by Bohm, and a selection "From the 'Canebrake,'" by Gardner.

The club continued with "Love's Old Sweet Song," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." Miss Margaret Gaebe, talented young reader, then read "Dame Fashion" by Foley, "Little Boy," by Bliss, and "Grandma Pays the Bill" as an encore. The Acolian club followed with "Beauteous Night" by Offenbach.

Mrs. H. T. Smith, soprano, gave three brilliant selections, "If" by Vanderpool, "Will O' The Wisp" by Spross, and "Dear Little Woman O' Mine."

The concluding numbers were "Lullaby" by Brahms, and Lee's "One Fleeting Hour," by the Acolian club, followed by an encore of the old favorite, "Aloha."

The newly elected Queen, Miss Lucille Berman and her officers were impressively escorted into the room and were presented in the form of a triangle. Miss Berman Queen Elect, was then sworn into office and was presented with the gavel, an emblem of her authority.

The other officers were then installed in order as follows: Senior princess, Elizabeth Smith; junior princess, Harriette Morris; guide, Virginia Cogan; marshal, Florine Pollock; chaplain, Thelma Shippe; recorder, Janet Forbes; treasurer, Mary Nau; librarian, Vera Getty, pianist, Viola Wiley; inner guard, Jennie Clark; outer guard, Ruth Baker; jun-

ANOTHER SPIN ACH HUNCH

I do not feel that I am giving you people who read this column your just dues unless I tell you of some new way to serve SPIN-ACH at frequent intervals. But, all joking aside, the more spinach and similar vegetables you can eat and the more sun light and exercise you can stow away this summer, the better your health will be next winter, when sun is not exercise a burden, and spinach dinky and high priced! All good reasons, aren't they?

Spinach costs five cents a pound right now. The next time you are having it for dinner buy a couple of pounds extra and cook along with the dinner spinach—and, of course, you cook it in just what water will cling to the leaves and you save the water in which it cooks. Take out of the cooked spinach what you are not going to use for dinner, chop it a little and put it in the ice box.

Next morning put this spinach to heat with the liquid saved, add a couple of cubes chicken broth to it, a little water perhaps, lemon juice an enough butter to season. Salt and pepper also.

Jelly it with plain gelatine, line some individual moulds with slices of hard cooked eggs anchored to the mould with gelatine, fill the moulds with the spinach mixture and chill all day. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise and hot rolls, and a good dessert, and you have the ideal supper for a hot summer night.

I urge the frequent use of spinach because it has about the highest organic IRON content of any vegetable we eat; because it car-

City Council

SAN CLEMENTE, May 23.—The San Clemente city council has entered the fight to secure a passenger and freight station for San Clemente on the Santa Fe line. A resolution requesting the railroad commission to order the Santa Fe to build a station here was adopted this week.

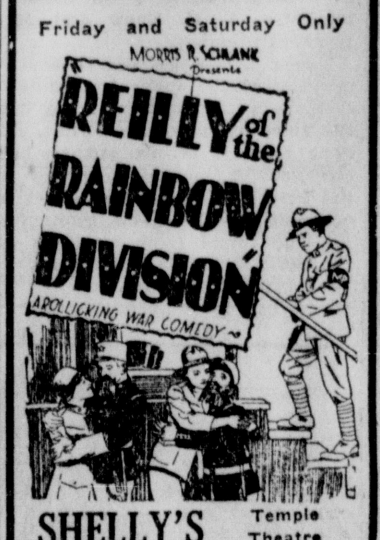

Hal Warner, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Trafford Hutson, president of the civic organization, state that Santa Fe officials say they will soon visit San Clemente to make a survey of railroad conditions here. The rail party is expected in a few weeks, according to Hutson.

'HAPPY DAYS' TO CLOSE RUN TODAY

"Happy Days," great Fox Movietone Minstrel show, which has been playing here since last Monday at the Fox West Coast theater, comes to the end of its run tonight.

With a heart throbbing plot, and yet with 11 stars and entertainers, the picture is entirely different from the various song and dance reviews that have been seen in Santa Ana in the past several weeks.

The story concerns an old showman, Col. Billy Batchelor, who with his "Mammoth Minstrels," on a showboat had been playing the Mississippi river for years and finds that he is broke as the boat docks at Memphis and a sheriff comes aboard to attach the show.

Then his old friends, actors whom he made famous in days gone by, come to his rescue and stage a benefit performance for him that puts him "in clover" for the remainder of his life. How they are reached, how they learn of their old friend's plight, and the enthusiasm they show in aiding the old man, makes the show one of the best pieces of entertainment that has been seen here in the past several months.

Good song and dance numbers abound in "Happy Days," while some of the biggest stars of stage and screen pass in review with their little acts in the benefit show.

"Honeymoon Zeppelin," an all-talking comedy and a Fox Movietone newsreel also are shown.

'BORN RECKLESS'
SEEN AT BROADWAY

Edmund Lowe, hero of "The Cock-eyed World," "What Price Glory" and other great pictures of the past, comes back to Santa Ana today in the latest John Ford production, "Born Reckless," a gripping story of the underworld.

The picture opens a three-day engagement at the Fox Broadway theater, succeeding "The Divorcee," which closed there last night.

"Born Reckless," can a man lead a quiet life? This is just one of the many questions answered in a picture that is full of romance, action, thrills and pathos. The story concerns a gang leader who, on his promise to make good in the army escaped a felony charge.

He goes to France. He meets a millionaire's son and they become buddies. The friend is killed, but before he dies he exacts a promise of the gangster and that promise causes him to go against his gangster friends later, when war clouds have been swept away and he is again in New York.

Catherine Dale Owen has the feminine lead in the play. She is another reason why the gangster strives for better things. He doesn't win, but he tries and the picture closes with a warm feeling for a man of that type.

A Fox Movietone newsreel, and an all-talking comedy also are shown.

MILITARY COMEDY
SHOWS AT TEMPLE

"Reilly of the Rainbow Division," a hilarious comedy of the late World war, heads the silent picture program tonight and tomorrow night at Shelley's Temple theater.

While the picture has a military background and a little serious vein running throughout, it is simply full of army gags and was made for laughing purposes only.

Also, augmenting Shelley's picture program tonight will be seen the "Doc and Ray Duo," the banjo boys of radioland in person, and Curtiss Garrett another radio entertainer will add his bit to the stage offering.

350 Enjoy Benefit Affair In Costa Mesa School

DANCE PUPILS ENTERTAIN AT MESA PROGRAM

COSTA MESA, May 23.—Fully 350 people witnessed the highway beautification benefit show given at the school auditorium Thursday evening under the direction of Mrs. Dolores Morrison.

"Joint Owners in Spain," a humorous play, with Miss Alice Plummer as matron, Mrs. L. R. Daughenbaugh, Mrs. M. O. Wells and Mrs. E. N. Gage as inmates of an old ladies' home, was the leading number in the varied vaudeville program. Mrs. J. F. Webster, chairman of dramatics of the Friday Afternoon club directed the play. Dr. J. W. Wherry spoke of the attention and prominence given to beauty in all lines during this age, contrasting with the plainness of 50 years ago, which led up to his talk in the interest of the highway beautification project, a community activity, originally sponsored by the Friday Afternoon club under the direction of Mrs. F. B. Morrill.

The Rev. A. F. Hase spoke of a plan for financing the care of the grounds, of which C. W. Spence has so ably cared for during the past and will continue with one-half of expense; also the grounds in the triangle near the clubhouse, which individuals have thus far kept in condition, and the Nineteenth to Twenty-third street section.

Cards were distributed, and pledges of 25 cents per month for a six months' period made which netted a total pledge of $25 per month.

Pupils of the Huntington Beach School of Dancing presented a varied dancing act. Beverly Bowen, aged 3, entertained with toe dancing; Elinore Miller, violin, playing and dancing simultaneously; novelty dance and acrobatic stunts; June Rhoades; jumping rope and tap dancing; Joy McCarty.

Dixie Chapman and Ava Stoval, of Costa Mesa, gave a tap dancing act of three numbers. The Simon Plas orchestra played several numbers.

Vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Ethel Kinley, Bob Fuller as a black comedian, sang "Mammy's Own Son," and other numbers. James Watkins, of Newport Beach, gave a dialect monologue and sang two numbers. "Cowpunchers of the Lazy U Ranch," an original playlet, was the final number with Hyatt Graham, violin; Bud Baker, guitar; Bob Fuller, banjo; Harold Elmer and Lee Belding with harmonicas, as orchestras of the number.

STREET DANCE IN TUSTIN SET FOR JUNE 14

TUSTIN, May 23.—Renewing the popular Tustin street dance, which for many years was an outstanding annual event, the Tustin volunteer fire department, assisted by the Tustin American Legion post 227, announces the date as June 14.

George Smith, chairman of the joint committees, states that the dance will be staged on the block of smooth pavement on Fourth street in Tustin, between C and D streets. Smooth dancing floor, fine music, plenty of room and a friendly crowd are promised by the committee in charge.

Tustin's street dance had its beginning in war days, said Smith, and was first sponsored by the Knights of Pythias as a Red Cross benefit. The event was well received and became an annual affair until the widening of D street, two years ago, interrupted. Now, however, under the auspices of the volunteer fire department and the American Legion, the popular event will again take its place as one of the outstanding attractions of Orange county's summer season.

"We expect to accommodate the largest crowd ever to gather in Tustin," said Grover A. Riehl, president of Tustin's fire department, in commenting on the street dance.

"The entire memberships of the Tustin fire department and the American Legion post will be on hand to assist in making the event a success."

LICENSE FEES FOR TRUCKS IN COUNTY TOPIC

BREA, May 23.—A motion was passed that the Brea chamber go on record as favoring the Harris bill, which regulates the immigration of Mexicans into this country, at the meeting Wednesday.

Ed Peterkin, chairman of the roads committee, brought up a question of licensing trucks, saying that in Los Angeles all trucks entering the city for delivery were required to conform to the city ordinance on paying a license as well as trucks leaving the city.

He stated that if Los Angeles continued to enforce this ordinance, other cities might retaliate and enforce their ordinances, requiring licenses from Los Angeles trucks, it being a proposition that could work both ways.

Secretary McDonald was instructed to write a letter of protest to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in regard to the matter, and delegates to the Associated Chamber of Commerce were asked to take it up with that organization.

Sutton also announced the Memorial day celebration at Brea, which will be in charge of the American Legion and the Spanish war veterans of the county.

Among the communications was one from the California School of Aeronautics at Hawthorne, stating that it was desired to establish a branch school at Brea, if permission could be obtained to use the Brea airport. The chamber will take up this matter when it is possible to get the field in shape.

Principal Harvey of the high school announced the annual school exhibit and program to be given Friday of this week from 8 to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

SCHOOL PUPILS EXHIBIT WORK IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, May 23.—An exhibit of hand work, art work and academic work of the pupils of the Baker street school, Placentia, was held at the school Wednesday.

Talent in art is shown by even the pre-first grade children, and this talent is being trained along natural lines by the art director, Mrs. Olive Smith.

Work on exhibition in the pre-first grade room. Miss Pauline Porter, teacher, was vases, pictures in cut and torn paper, paper and rag dolls, chalk drawings and design work.

In the first grade room under Mrs. Ruth Benton, academic work was displayed, with fairly flower baskets, cut work pictures, stencils and group composition in art work.

Mrs. Katherine Hampton's second grade children had a large and table on which they had constructed a model of Santa Fe street, with houses and tiny clay figures carrying out the daily activities. Their particular problem in art work was illustrations of their reading lessons.

The third grade, under Miss Marguerite Runkle, had detail design and an interesting series of pictures illustrating different modes of travel.

Pupils of the fourth grade, Miss Theresa Ross, teacher, had creative work lamp shades, some very fine posters of Italian, Mexican and Russian types of faces, and gave a demonstration lesson in drawing a house and garden.

Miss Mutchler's class also gave a demonstration lesson in dictation.

Donald McLean's fifth and sixth grade students were doing line and composition, arrangement, technique, block prints, and were using as mediums water color, pencil, pastels and poster paints. There were large posters of the Santa Clara, Carmel and San Carlos missions, and a large wooden model of the Santa Clara mission, which was made in manual training.

The agile camels of Europe balances itself upon dizzy mountain peaks, gathering its forefeet into a space of but a few inches.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation
Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Ty Cobb's Prodigy Makes Good

Charley Gehringer doesn't chew, smoke or drink, but he does play bridge and in remarkably short time he has lived up to the promise of becoming one of the greatest second basemen

"YOU'LL have a fellow here who will steal a lot of bases for you," Cobb told Prexy "Uncle Frank" Navin of the Tigers. "And he will learn to hit this American League pitching, too."

Cobb's predictions proved him one of the most accurate of baseball prophets. Everything he said of Gehringer has turned out to be true in the four years since Ty made his forecast.

Gehringer played nearly all the season of 1926 at second base with the Tigers. He hit .277, which is not so wonderful, but he fielded very efficiently. He still did certain things awkwardly, however, and when George Moriarty was appointed manager of the Tigers for the season of 1927, the status of Gehringer remained for some time in doubt.

During the winter of 1926-27, Moriarty had made a deal with the St. Louis Browns for Marty McManus, with every intention in the world of playing Marty at second base. McManus had spent most of his life at first and second base and had come to regard that side of the diamond as his private property.

Moriarty, after the season started, decided to bench McManus on some matter of discipline. Gehringer was sent to second until McManus should see the light and correct his disposition. But this was Gehringer's opportunity—and he grabbed it.

GEHRINGER'S play at the bat and in the field was so good that Moriarty could not remove him from the lineup. Then several circumstances developed which relieved the rather embarrassing situation for the manager. Jackie Tavener sustained an injury and Moriarty sent McManus to short. Later McManus was shifted to third, where he proved to be a wizard.

In the spring of 1928 Moriarty sent McManus to third again, and put the boy from Fowlerville at second base. That's where the pair play today, and no team in the league offers superior players at those two positions. Gehringer came through splendidly at the bat in 1928, fulfilling Cobb's prediction. He batted .320 that year, and his fielding game improved as the season rolled along.

Last year the fellow from Fowlerville burst into full bloom as one of baseball's greatest second basemen. He batted .339. Though Fonseca won the league leadership in batting, Gehringer was the greatest all-round player in the league, in both batting and fielding.

Gehringer last year played in the most games, 155. He scored more runs than any other man in the league, 131. He led the league in stolen bases, with 27. He made the most three-base hits, 19. He tied with his teammate, "Ox" Alexander, for the most hits, 215. With another teammate, Roy Johnson, and Heinie Manush of the Browns, he tied for the most two-base hits. Though he batted second, which is an unfavorable position in the batting order for driving in runs, he smacked in 106 counters.

That stolen base mark is one of the interesting figures in Gehringer's record. It recalls Cobb's careful teaching back in 1925 and 1926 when he coached the long boy from Fowlerville in the arts and graces of canvas larceny.

THERE are a few difficult assignments in the sports world. One of the hardest jobs, I am told by some of my friends, is that of covering the big crew races. Covering golf and bowling tournaments is no huge joke. But one of the tasks that outranks all others is that of interviewing Charley Gehringer.

Gehringer is not a talker. He responds to most questions in monosyllables. He sits regarding you quietly, pleasantly enough, but without words. I doubt if he ever pried himself loose from a fully respectable paragraph in his whole life. He prefers to listen.

He is one of baseball's "nice boys," in sharp contrast to the swashbuckling, hilarious lads of other days, who used to stay out until 4 a. m. and go out there and play baseball all afternoon. He is of a new school of ball players, a school that has been increasing rapidly in the big leagues during the last few years.

The manner of Gehringer's speech emphasizes strangely this characterization of him. There is just the suggestion of a lisp in the voice of the young man who cracked American League pitching for .339 last season. Still, with his quiet confidence, you do not feel that you are being disillusioned as you talk to him. He feels sure of himself in an undemonstrative way.

He is one of the college type of players, though he had only one year at Michigan. Baseball is his purpose in life, and he goes about it with all the zest of a breadwinner. He conveys at once the impression that he is educated. He might be an assistant librarian in Fowlerville.

THE only subject upon which you can get from him any "good copy" at all is baseball. Here he knows his way, and expresses very definite theories and ideas.

We were talking about the phenomenal success of young Wesley Ferrell, the Cleveland pitcher, who won 21 games in his first year in the American League. I said I thought Ferrell had shown enough stuff to win at least 20 games this year. Gehringer thought otherwise.

"I doubt if he wins 15," he said, without emphasis and in the same tone of conversational monotone in which he had been talking.

Later I met Ferrell in New Orleans where the Indians were training. I had confided in several of the Cleveland sports writers what Gehringer had said about Ferrell.

The Georgia Peach must have smiled some such smile as this . . . when he first saw the youthful Gehringer do his stuff.

"Let's tell Wes and see if we can have some fun," one of the writers suggested.

That night, several of the writers gathered with some of the players in the hotel lobby. One of the Cleveland writers finally told Ferrell what Gehringer had said.

Ferrell is a serious young man and you could see him getting red around the ears.

"I'd like to bet him I win more than 15 games," was his earnest reply.

But, to get back to Gehringer.

"What do you like besides baseball?" I asked, "dancing, cards, any other amusements?"

"Bridge," said Gehringer.

"Got any pet theories about base running?"

"No."

"You used to watch Cobb run those paths, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Cobb certainly did know how to run those bases, didn't he?"

"He sure did."

"You led the league in stolen bases last year with 27, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"But I notice you are always able to slap the ball on the runner when you are playing second. You straddle the bag. Isn't that unusual?"

"Most players don't straddle the bag."

"It's dangerous, isn't it?"

"I never got hurt."

"It's unusual, though."

His reply was a shy smile.

Just then some more ball players happened on the scene and invited us to play bridge. Gehringer jumped at the chance. Doubtless this was more than he had talked all week and his voice was all used up.

THEY brought a table into the lobby and we played. His skill at bridge was amazing.

He played silently, just as he plays baseball, paying attention to his business every second of the time. During the four hours or more we played he said just one word.

That was "Damn!" when a finesse that cost him game and rubber went awry.

I asked Dan Howley if he thought Gehringer the best second baseman in the game today.

"Well," Dan said, after some consideration, "I don't know whether I would say that or not. Look up Hornsby's record and look up Tony Lazzeri, and see how they rank."

It was not my intention to compare Gehringer with Hornsby, who has proved himself one of the super-stars of the game in the last 15 years. Hornsby belongs to that little coterie of greats that includes Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Hans Wagner, Babe Ruth—the immortals.

But with Tony Lazzeri, Gehringer is running the closest kind of race for batting and fielding honors. There is only the difference of one point in their big league batting averages. Over four years and a month Gehringer has batted .314. Over four years Lazzeri has batted .315. During that time Gehringer has played in 573 games and Lazzeri has been in 571.

Gehringer, however, with his great all-round record of last year, surpassed Tony, though it may be said in behalf of Lazzeri that during most of the season Tony was suffering from a sore shoulder.

Gehringer still has 10 good years of baseball ahead of him. He does not smoke, chew or drink. He was 27 years old May 11. Lazzeri is seven months younger, and he will be 27 December 6, 1930.

With confidence born of his splendid record last year, who can say to what heights "Chase" may go this year? For among the ball players Gehringer is known as "Chase."

BOBBY VEACH, who used to aid Ty Cobb in a small way in covering the outfield for the Detroit Tigers, used also to go hunting in Fowlerville, Michigan. Bobby hunted rabbits mostly, but one day he sighted some really big game. The game had a name, and the game's name was Charles Leonard Gehringer.

Ty Cobb was managing the Tigers back in 1923 when Veach brought in his bag from Fowlerville. Fowlerville, every fall, was the scene of a baseball classic unique in itself. Various teams from all over the county loaded up temporarily on big league talent and had at one another right hotly, while the merry villagers laid bets all over the place. Veach was one of the big leaguers who played at Fowlerville.

Fowlerville never needed a big leaguer at third base, however, for that was where the young man named Charles Leonard Gehringer played. Veach watched the 19-year-old third sacker and sat right down and wrote to Ty Cobb about him. Cobb told Veach to bring him on in the spring of 1924 and he would look him over.

Gehringer went with the Tigers to Augusta, Georgia, the next spring and exhibited his stuff to Cobb. Ty had been worried for several years about the gap at second base and told Gehringer to try his hand at that position. The Georgia Peach saw Charley in a practice game and was not slow in committing himself in this wise:

"That kid is the greatest second baseman I ever saw!" Gehringer, at that time, never had played a professional or league game of ball in his life. He had played for the love of it—and he liked it so well that he had gone to the University of Michigan for a year, "just to get the physical education that a big leaguer needs." And he got it.

"The greatest second baseman I ever saw!" . . . That was the extravagant-sounding estimate Ty Cobb made of Charley Gehringer four years ago. . . . Action portrait sketch by Sports Artist Laufer.

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

or so in the minors would bring him right out."

So, off to the minors Cobb sent "the best second baseman I ever saw." It was a way big league managers have of schooling talented rookies. A year or two in the minors, where the youthful talent is often under the tutelage of former big leaguers, helps to give the recruit the background and style he must have in the major leagues.

CHARLEY turned up that year in the uniform of the London, Ontario, team, up in the Michigan and Ontario League. Gehringer's batting average that year was not impressive—.292, but he learned rapidly, and what was regarded as more important, paid attention strictly and seriously to business. At the end of the year he was deemed ready for higher company, and Cobb placed him with the Toronto team in the International League.

Here Gehringer was under the watchful eye of Dan Howley, who later came to the big leagues as manager of the Browns, and this year of the Cincinnati Reds. He played such great ball for Howley that year that Dan told Cobb at the end of the season he believed he was ready to take the second base job permanently for Detroit or anybody else.

At the end of the 1925 season, Gehringer played in a few games for the Tigers. In eight games he got only three hits, but his fielding so impressed Cobb that Ty decided to use him regularly at second during 1926.

Cobb drilled him carefully, in batting and on the base paths. The veteran Georgian liked the way Charley listened and the manner in which he tried to learn.

Last night we had a peace program for the P. T. A. put on by the low 4 and high 5. We had little programs which gave the names of the characters and also the names of those who took part in "The Progress of Peace." The synopsis of the play was where "Love" and "Good Will," Marguerite Mimental and Nellie Billand, brought the nations together after much coaxing. All did their part very well. I think it was very well done.

On Miss Camblin's room last "Joy Monday" we had a clay lesson. We made candlesticks, bowls, tea tiles and jars and put Indian designs on them.

Julia Lathrop

Friday, May 16 was exhibit and visiting day at Lathrop. Work which had been done during the year was displayed attractively in the various rooms which had been chosen for the department. In the afternoon the classes were rotated from one exhibit to another in order that all students might see the display. At night the exhibit was open to parents and visitors from 7:30 until 9 o'clock. At this time a play was given by Mrs. Wolfe's drama class as an added feature.

All of the exhibits were interesting and representative of the work produced during the year.

In the sewing room, garments which had been completed were on display as well as the foundation work of this department. Of special interest was a patchwork quilt of blue and white, which had been embroidered and pieced by the girls, and which will be sold in order to raise money for the department. High nine girls in the sewing classes are planning a fashion show to take place in about two weeks. At this time they will model almost 70 dresses made by students.

In the cooking department were displayed delicious looking canned fruits, jellies and jams. These were arranged in a very attractive fashion with glass paper and a light which made them look doubly good to eat. Cooked foods, such as cakes, cookies, pies, candy, muffins and biscuits were also on display. Besides these food displays there were projects, notebooks and an exhibit entitled "Well Balanced Meals for a Junior H. S. Girl." This showed a kitchen set with a table and nine menus and table decorations for different occasions as Thanksgiving, St. Patrick's day, Christmas and Halloween.

Class work is going on with an added impetus since the end of school is not far in the future. High nines are thinking about completing their work and leaving a clear record before going on to high school, and the other grades are busy bringing their work up to date for promotion to the next grade.

Miss Nicholson's H8 history class has been having a series of debates. The second of the series took place Monday morning, May 19. This debate was of the question, "Resolved, That the employment of children in factories and similar industries should be forbidden." On the negative side were Lois Marie Franke, Jean McAuley, Mary Ford and Betty Martin. The affirmative side was upheld by Dorothy Proctor, Nadine Johnson, Betty Figaro and Eva Bergee. Judges were David Webb, Thelma Hurst and Helen Harwood.

At a recent baseball game Lathrop was the winner with a score of 11-3.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

"Oh, gee," cried Clowny, in a whirl. "I only wish I had a girl. I'd purchase her a bunch of flowers 'cause, my, but they smell sweet. I've never seen such nice bouquets that folks can buy, in all my days. To have a bunch of flowers like these would really be a treat."

The Travel Man said, "You are right. They surely make a wonderful sight. But, lad, as long as you've no girl, we'll only buy a few. Just five, in fact, I'll purchase now and promptly I will show you how to pin one on each one of us. Come on, that's what I'll do."

And so the five were bought real quick and very shortly they looked sleek pinned right upon the Tinymites. Said one, "We look real swell. The flower I have is a big rose. That's one flower everybody knows. I only have to tip my head to get its lovely smell."

And then they wandered on their way.

The Travel man said, "Well, today, we'll hike down to the fishing place and watch the fishermen. You'll see some fine sights, never fear. They catch some real big fish down here. A monster often grabs their hook and breaks it now and then."

They reached the spot, not far away, and Scouty shouted loud, "Hurray! I see a fisherman right now. I guess he's starting out. Before he goes I wish he'd tell us how they do it. Gee, I'll yell and tell him please to wait for us."

Then he began to shout.

The fisherman then spread a smile and said, "Why, sure, I'll loaf awhile and tell you all about the fish. There's much that you can know." The Tinymites then gathered 'round and squatted down upon the ground. The man then told his story in a manner loud and slow.

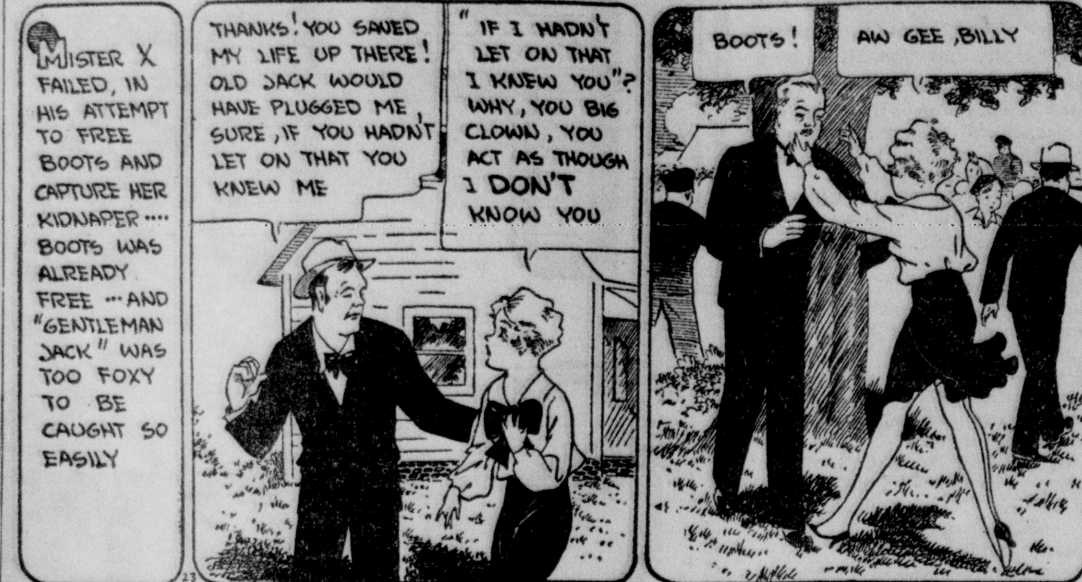

(The Tinymites find out more about fish in the next story.)

SOCIETY

Fidelis Class Meets In Laguna Beach Home Yesterday

Cooling breezes lured members of the Fidelis class of the First Baptist church yesterday to the Laguna Beach home of Mrs. Mary Wilbur. Pink carnations formed the attractive bouquets in the Wilbur home.

The covered dish luncheon was served in cafeteria style, always indicative of a delightfully informal occasion.

The business meeting followed the dinner, and was in charge of the president of the group, Mrs. R. L. Blancher. Mrs. John Farwell led in the devotionals. An important decision of the day was made when the members voted to support financially the work being carried on by members in social service work among the Mexican people. Plans were also made for an entertainment in June, when the husbands of the members will be guests at a picnic in Irvine park.

Mrs. May W. Borum, whose birthday it was, was given special attention when the group united in singing her a birthday greeting.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent on the beach, where the members relaxed and enjoyed the scenic beauties of Laguna.

Mrs. C. E. Oliver, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Clara Andrews, of Orange, were guests.

Members present were Mesdames A. C. Wiebe, R. L. Blancher, H. A. DeWolf, Elmer Stoffer, J. R. Farwell, Lloyd Watson, A. R. Mueller, David Meyer, Fred A. Garcelon, O. F. Catland, Emma Johnson, R. J. Haynes, F. A. Kennedy, G. W. Spurrier, Ella Baker, Georgia Holly, E. D. Berry, Alice Milligan, P. H. Peters, May W. Borum, J. P. Elliott, Edna Machander, Mabel D. Elliott, Sarah Lentz, Carl Peterson, Grace Wallace, Belle Comfort, L. A. Woods, W. H. McMurphy, C. H. Baldwin, and the hostess, Mrs. Mary Wilbur.

Happy Affair For Little Lad

Master Teddy Bolte's fourth birthday arriving this week, was incentive for a happy party which his mother, Mrs. R. C. Bolte, gave in the pleasant garden of her home at 1329 West Ninth street on Monday afternoon. The small playmates of Master Teddy joined in the lively games planned by Mrs. Bolte, while many young mothers, who accompanied their children to the party, sat back and enjoyed the pretty scene.

One of the most exciting features was when the little birthday host was privileged to unwrap the array of packages, to find the gifts selected for him by his playmates. This feature was fully as interesting to the guests as it was to Teddy himself.

Put of course the climax of the party came at the refreshment hour when tables, set about the lawn, were decked with red, white and blue in deference to the approach of Decoration day. Even nut cups and place cards were in the tri-colors, while best of all, the big birthday cake bore four bright red candles which Teddy blew out with much zest before the cake was cut ready for serving.

Faculty Members Enjoy Delightful Golf Party Recently

Mrs. Zeffie Dixon delightfully entertained the members of the Frances Willard junior high school faculty and other friends at a golf party on the Tom Thumb Golf course, South Main street, Wednesday evening. Many of the guests were initiated into the mysteries of miniature golf and before the evening's games were over, declared themselves enthusiastic followers of the sport.

Following the second round of each foursome, the guests adjourned to the home of Mrs. Dixon where the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Charles Rockwell, served punch and wafers. Miss Tessie Childers was given first prize for having the best score for women. Miss Marian Libby and Miss Elfreda Biggin tied for second place. Harry Jackson was awarded men's first prize and Arnold Lund took second honors. Consolation prizes were given to Miss Anita Summers and E. D. Froeschle.

Those enjoying the party included Mr. and Mrs. Budd, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horn, Mrs. Edith Thatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Parker, Miss Mary Elliott, Miss Bertha Briney, Miss Veda Ball, Miss Elfreda Biggin, Miss Gladys Campbell, Miss Hazel Bemus, Miss Anita Summers, Miss Ruth Mueller, Miss Lillian Fitz, Miss Tessie Childers, Miss Esther Boose, Miss Marian Libby and the hostess, Mrs. Dixon. DUCK ATTEMPTS TO FREE SNARED BIRD

DENVER, May 23.—(INS)—A wood duck, one of the wildest feathered creatures, flew to the rescue of a robin, which narrowly escaped hanging in a tree at City park here recently.

Joe Westonsider, a zoo keeper, vouches for the tale, for he saw the wood duck in the act of trying to save the robin, which became entangled in a string in the tree.

Seeing the robin in trouble, a woman summoned Westonsider. The two hurried to the tree, which stood on the edge of the lake in plain view of the ducks swimming there.

A string in the tree had formed a noose about the robin's neck. Apparently trying to disentangle the bird, the tiny wood duck was attempting to reach it with its bill.

Westonsider cut the string and the robin flew away.

Brea

Home Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rhome, of 204 South Madrona avenue, was the setting of the wedding of their daughter, Miss May Rhome, when she became the bride of Kenneth B. Hill, this week. The ceremony took place on the lawn which had been beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns and baskets of gladioli.

The Rev. Corlett, of the Nazarene church, officiated, and the ceremony was witnessed by more than 100 relatives and friends.

William Wilson, of Long Beach, sang two numbers, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawn," with Miss Florence Mosley as his accompanist.

Becomingly attired in a gown of white crepe de chine, with a wreath of pearls and orange blossoms fastening her bridal veil, and carrying a bouquet of pink and white roses, the bride presented a picture of loveliness.

Miss Leona Rhome attended her sister as bride's maid, and wore a gown of pink georgette and carried a bouquet of pink and lavender sweet peas.

Little Jean Baker, of Los Angeles, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Train bearers were Merle and Earl Chansler, small twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Chansler.

Mr. Hill was attended by Melvin Dowdy, of Whittier.

Mrs. Della Marks and Miss Winifred Pendleton assisted Mrs. Rhome in receiving guests.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served, a pink and white color motif being carried out.

The newlyweds left by auto for the north where they will spend a two weeks' honeymoon.

WOULD OPEN FRAT HOUSES TO WOMEN

WORCESTER, Mass., May 23.—Contenting that the feminine touch is necessary to make a home, Northwestern University fraternity men today are fostering a campaign to allow women guests in fraternity houses.

At the present time women guests are allowed only on the rarest occasions and then only when they are well chaperoned. Representatives of the men's union and interfraternity council feel that restrictions should be dropped so that the ladies can visit for parties, teas and other informal social gatherings.

"The men are grown up," said Merrill Munday, president of the union. "This is not the age of Nellie, the sewing-machine girl, and the villagers who were believed to lurk in parlors during that time have all been scared out of existence."

The student council and university congress will act on the place for open houses shortly.

Great Fun

The Best Yet In Gliders

The PLAYBOY FOLDING GLIDER is shot straight up 100 or 150 feet by a special rubber. This is possible because in the folded position it goes up like an arrow. The air holds the wings folded until the glider reaches the pinnacle, when they open. It will then make one loop and gradually circle and glide to the ground.

Provides Hours of Fun

As the PLAYBOY GLIDER does not depend upon a small propeller and lightness to lift it into the air, it is made very sturdy. The wooden nose protects it if shot head on into a wall. If a wing hits any obstruction, it simply folds back and after freeing itself the wing opens and continues its flight.

EVENING SALUTATION

ACCIDENTS IN HOMES

Twenty-two Visiting Nurses' Associations recently made a report that of 6,585 cases of non-fatal accidental injuries treated by them in one year, forty-six per cent occurred while the victims were engaged in domestic pursuits, forty-five per cent in public places and only nine per cent while the injured persons were at work. Furthermore, more persons were non-fatally injured by home falls than by automobile accidents, the records being 1,424 injured by falls in the home and 1,342 injured in automobile accidents.

Children under five, the report indicates, are safer outside than in the home, only 153 injured in public places and 576 receiving non-fatal injuries at home.

If the figures spur people on to greater care in their homes, they serve a good purpose. In defense of the housewife, however, it may be noted that the Visiting Nurses' Associations are probably more frequently called to attend injuries in the home than injuries which occur in other places.

Injuries on the street or in the schools, or school yards are most frequently treated by other organizations, emergency hospitals, the doctors who are in the employ of large industries and school nurses. Then, too, children under five are more frequently at home than elsewhere.

Speaking of accidents as a whole, Mr. Louis Resnick, writing in the Nation this week, compiles formidable figures.

"In the last twelve years," he says, "we have killed 1,000,000 men, women and children and seriously injured 25,000,000 by preventable accidents in the United States."

Last year 95,000 persons were killed by accidents in this country. It is appalling. We pay too dearly for our speed.

An English clergyman breaks into print with the prediction there will be a war between the sexes. We weren't aware the present one was over.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE

Every people seems to be happy when it is learned that the balance of trade is in its favor. When exports exceed imports, it is thought that we are the gainers, and some other country the loser.

As a matter of fact, there is a great deal of misapprehension concerning this balance of trade. It is impossible for a country to buy more than it sells, unless some other factor enters into the equation. No individual can spend more than he receives, except as he receives credit; and this credit must be paid back. Neither can a country spend more than it receives.

The factor which enters into the equation is what are called invisible receipts. England, for example, receives annually some $1,387,000,000 from interest on foreign bonds, and $683,000,000 from dividends on foreign stocks. Besides, she receives some $657,000,000 from carrying shipments for other countries by her merchant marine. Last year American tourists spent $614,000,000 abroad. A half of that money went to France; the remainder was divided between Italy, Canada and Switzerland, in the order named.

These figures have been compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce. They indicate that nations have other sources of income than from the goods they export. Balances of trade must be interpreted in the light of this additional income.

RULES FOR THE BROADCASTING PROFESSION

Broadcasting has become a profession, and many there be who are seeking entrance into it. For the benefit of those who have aspirations to become like unto Milton Cross, who received the prize for being the best announcer, and Alvin Bach and Alois Havrilla, the following suggestions made by the advisory committee on education by radio may be of some value:

Write out your exact wording.

Begin with one or two short striking statements.

Present your subject on the level of 13-year-old listeners.

Use a few pertinent historical allusions.

Anecdotes, short and clearly to the point, are good.

Avoid too much generalization.

Minimize preaching and advice.

Revise your manuscript for clearness and delivery.

Reread aloud several times under the watch.

Speak distinctly.

This is sound counsel, and might well be followed by all public speakers. Following that advice would make public speakers everywhere more effective; and the American public would be delivered from many boresome hours at public gatherings and banquets, and possibly in churches.

BOOK PRICES COME DOWN

Three New York publishing houses today announced reductions in the price of their fiction publications. They will all publish popular fiction at one dollar. The news will have delighted acclaim for it probably introduces a reduction in all types of books. We suspect that the various book clubs have brought about the reduction. Even those who denounce the book clubs as the pets of stereotyped minds will be grateful for the patronage which has undoubtedly brought a reduction in the cost of books.

WEAR A POPPY AND GIVE GLADLY

Brave American hearts that are part of France, resting in hallowed graves where they fought and fell, will receive a glorious tribute tomorrow. All America must, and will, contribute to the observance of Poppy Day.

The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary need funds for the welfare work which is their assumed responsibility and our obligation. For the last year, they tell us, World war veterans have been dying at the average rate of seventy a day. If the tragedy of the war is not to be increased, instead of mitigated as time passes, the welfare of those dependent on these disabled and passing veterans must be fostered by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary.

So, tomorrow, you will not be fully dressed until a poppy adorns your buttonhole! You don't buy it, really. It will be handed to you by the friends of Orange county boys who left companions in arms on the long, long trail.

The act of giving this poppy to you, in semblance of the heroic fields in France, calls for a thoughtful contribution on your part toward this fund.

A kindly, liberal gift will do untold good. Let us make it with something of the spirit that sent our boys away. They have given all they had to give. Ours is a trifling return to help keep their resting place bright.

Wear a poppy and give gladly.

THE PASSING OF THE EPICURE

The New York Academy of Medicine recently came into possession of what is reputed to be the largest collection in the world of works on foods, dietetics and the culinary arts. One cook book in the collection is more than a thousand years old and it is said that greasy marks on the pages evidence much use, though it is beautifully bound. It was written in 870, and tells how the Romans cooked their meats, what sauces they concocted. All is told in highly technical Latin. But a translation is now being prepared. Some of the titles of the books indicate the same joviality in the ancients who compiled books on cookery as in the moderns who have for the title of their books: "A Thousand Ways to Please a Husband." Of old they wrote: "Adam's Luxury and Eve's Cookery." Another title is: "The Comic Cook Book," and still another: "Love is in the Stomach, Not the Heart." One, which was not intended to be funny is: "Orphan's Friend, Composed Upon Temperance Principles." Among the collection is one by John Wesley, a "Treatise Against Tea."

The art of gastronomy has fallen into a decline with the increasing interest in avoidupois. There is no reason why it should, because if one determines to eat only a little there is all the more reason for that little being the most delightful arrangement of food possible. But the matter is that there is no reason for the food being appetizing. A famished "reducer" can eat anything in sight. He may have the will to refuse food in the interest of his waistline but he hasn't the will power to continue it a bit farther and be an epicure.

Clearing Billboards Off Yosemite Roads

San Francisco Chronicle
Mariposa county is doing fine work toward clearing the highways leading into Yosemite Park of the billboards that clutter and deface the scenery. Park Superintendent C. G. Thompson informs A. Emory Wishon of the State-wide committee of the State Chamber of Commerce that about 90 per cent of the owners of property on which billboards now are erected have given pledges to banish them as soon as the present leases expire. This will cover the All-Year Highway and Big Oak Flat roads.

These roads have cost a great deal of public money. The park to which they lead is one of the nation's most beautiful and dearest possessions. Private generosity is joining hands with the government to save by purchase the stands of wonderful timber privately owned in the margins of the park. This is going to cost millions.

To deface the approaches to this beautiful playground of the nation is unthinkable and the owners of property adaptable to roadside signs are public spirited enough to appreciate the point. Their action in agreeing to sacrifice what revenue they derive from billboard privileges is a praiseworthy agreement with public opinion, to preserve the scenic beauty of the approaches to Yosemite.

Visitors are going to Yosemite in increasing numbers every year. It is one of the state's great assets in the tourist traffic. It is contrary to public policy and repugnant to public opinion to clutter up one of the wonder sights of the world with signboards. Mariposa shows civic spirit and good business sense by its activity to protect its natural beauty against wanton trespass by ugliness.

Passing of An Epoch

New York Times
No Henty books have been issued for years. Frank, that versatile hero of "Harry Castleman," whose adventures on Don Carlos's Rancho won him the devotion of boys, has long been silent. Nick Carter is gone. "Deadwood Dick" has just died. It has been a long time since "Oliver Optic" and Horatio Alger Jr. told of the rise of boys from virtuous poverty to equally virtuous riches. Now Mr. Stratemeyer, whose "Rover Boys" series sold more than 5,000,000 copies, has laid down his pen. Who is to write tales of adventure for the boys of the airplane and television age?

It is probable that new formulas will have to be fused by the next boys' Froissart. Mr. Henty selected "Archibald Forbes," associated him with Wallace and with the Bruce, wove the more pleasing high-lights of Scottish history into the narrative, and there, in a lovely green buckram cover, was "For Name and Fame." The same method worked as well with innumerable other tales of historical adventure. "Castleman" put into his epis more of the flavor of the soil. "Optic" and Alger kept up the writers of detective and Wild West thrillers, preserving lightly the theme of sterling character, made action their hand-maiden. Mr. Stratemeyer evolved a happy combination of both.

All these are now dated. The boys of the airplane age are ready for the touch of a new and skillful hand. Fortunately, they will still turn to "Tom Sawyer" while waiting for the next installment of something probably called "Peril in the Sky."

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

POOR OLD HEN

Poultry farmers are now installing burglar alarms in their hen-coops.

When eggs were cheap and plenty
The hen would often roam,
In search of food to serve her need,
Far, far away from home.
And if, through dogs or foxes
She came to mortal harm
Not any word of grief was heard
About the dear old farm.

But when the creature's product
Became of sterling worth,
She could not stay abroad by day
Like rovers of the earth.
No more she sought far pastures
Her daily fare to find,
'Mid alien dust; her wanderlust
Was cabined and confined.

Today she dwells in prisons
Of stoutly woven wire;
The eggs she bears are precious wares
And every day wax higher.
And in the solemn midnight
Great brazen gongs will peal,
With clanging sound for miles around
If thieves break through to steal.

And 'ere another decade
Shall swiftly wax and wane,
Who seeks again to find the hen
Shall seek for her in vain.
For eggs will rate as rubies
And she will lay alone,
Behind a tall and massive wall,
In vaults of steel and stone.

ASK THE FLAT DWELLER

Agrees With Coolidge

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Calvin Coolidge says he would like to be known as "a former President who tries to mind his own business."

Cincinnati began to mind its own business toward the end of 1928. Cincinnati, we hasten to explain, was not converted from the sinful habit of thrusting her municipal nose into the affairs of other cities. She simply waked up to the fact that she was not thrusting her nose sufficiently into her own affairs. Especially the affairs of the jobless.

So the citizens appointed a Committee on Unemployment. In their innocence, they supposed, no doubt, that by the time the Committee got through defining "unemployment," every one would have forgotten what the project was all about.

But this Committee was unique. It was unaware of the fact that the duty of a committee is to discuss something, and refer it to another committee, which in turn refers it to another committee, and so on until the robins nest again. This Committee not only discussed unemployment. It figured out a way of abolishing unemployment. In fact, it provided a job for every one who needed a job.

The only red tape which the applicant had to go through, was to slide up to a dictionary and find out what "bona fide" might mean. If it meant him—if he was a "bona fide" resident—he could get a job doing this and that around schools, churches, and other semi-public institutions, at 30 cents an hour.

Even after qualifying under the "bona fide" clause, many a job-seeker suspected that there was some joke in the offer. But no. Applicants were not required to wiggle their right hands before a notary, or fill out affidavits telling what had become of the money they earned on their job two summers before. All they had to do was to ask for a job, go to work, and draw their pay.

Cincinnati's municipal word was as good as her municipal bond. "No qualified aspirant was refused a job." It is a wise city that knows her own business. And a wiser city still that minds it.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF I COULD DO AS I PLEASE

This afternoon, at the end of an unusually busy week, I motored out into the hills for a breath of spring air and a glimpse of the green loveliness of an awakening countryside. Under the sedative hum of the motor, I caught myself day-dreaming.

Without conscious intention, I was dreaming of what I should do if I could, with royal gesture and magic promptitude, determine de novo my life and my labor, and this is what I found myself saying to myself I should, above all things else, want to do.

I should want to preside over the policies and processes of an educational institution comprised of but two units—An Engineering School and a School of Business Administration.

These two units would be unlike any engineering or business schools now in operation.

Students, pointed towards careers as engineers or business men, would come to these schools directly from their mastery of the tool subjects in preparatory schools.

All that now goes by the name of liberal education they would find as part and parcel of their training as prospective engineers and business men.

Historic perspective, breadth of learning, culture, all these would be achieved as by-products of an organized effort to understand this machine age—its genesis, its contemporary skeleton and soul, its probable future if we allow its taut forces to drift, its possible future if we bring mastery to these forces.

I should want to cut across lots through the mass of material that now weighs down the curriculum of the average college and university and come directly by the job of mastering the central problem of our generation—what part can engineers and business men play in fashioning the future of our social order which, for good or ill, is dominated by physical science and the machine?

I should devote less time to teaching these prospective engineers and business men the tricks of their trade than is now devoted to technical procedures in our colleges of engineering and business administration.

I think this day-dream was inspired by a growing conviction that, despite the critics, all of art and of philosophy and of social statesmanship that is to be significant in the next century will spring out of an effort to bring statesmanship to bear upon the evolution of the machine age.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE BAD LITTLE BOY

The children were playing par-cheese. Buddy, the youngest of four, was bent upon winning. He shook his dice box with tremendous vigor. He whacked his men on the board. He held his breath while the others shook and moved and made bridges and sent men home.

He had one man within a space of safety on the last home stretch. Sister Helen counted her spaces carefully, should she move this man, or this? Would it be better to make a bridge or carry one man as far as possible? Ah! Here was Buddy. "Home he goes. That gives me an extra twenty and my man home. Hurray!"

Buddy gasped. He grew red in the face. He clenched his fists. With a wild howl he smote the parcheesi board sending the boxes and men in different directions and threw himself headlong into the sofa pillows.

The children were inclined to be severe with him. Then they thought hooting him might be the better plan. "Good boy Buddy. If you can't win a game you can be the prize boob, can't you?" jibed his big brother.

"You let me alone, you big stiff. You wouldn't win if you didn't cheat so much. I could win, too, if I counted wrong like you. You big stiff."

"Don't you call me a cheat, you big cry baby."

"Now don't get to fighting," said sister Helen. "He's only a big baby and we won't play with him any more. Let him cry and come on and play."

"Ma-ma. Ma-ma. They won't play with me. They put me out of the game. Ma-ma. Come and make them stop. Ma-ma. Make them play with me. Make them stop cheating."

"Mother, we didn't cheat. I sent him home and he had a regular fit. He won't play unless he can beat. We don't want to play if he is going to play."

There seems to be but one thing for mother to do and that is what she does. Taking Buddy by the hand she leads him out of the room, up to the bathroom, washes his face and takes him down stairs once more to sit with her a little while and talk things over.

"You can't always win, my boy."

"Well, they won't help me."

"That isn't the game. When you play it is every man for himself and play to the rules. It was right for Helen to send you home. That is the rule of the game. Rules are what make the game. No rules, no game. You see that, don't you?"

"You can send them home if you have the chance. Winning isn't the whole thing. Knowing how to play, how to get fun out of it, how to lose cheerfully. That's the game. Everybody loses some time. Wouldn't it look funny if we cried every time we lost the game? Imagine me crying into the sink when I burned the toast the other morning. Silly, eh?"

"Well you just run along and make up your mind that you're going to smile right through, win or lose, like a regular fellow. And here's a big cookie for luck."

Encourage the bad loser. Don't tease him. Make opportunities for his success. But hold by the rules of the game. He must learn. (Copyright, 1930, The Bell Syn., Inc.)
